GOLDEN CYCLE MILL RESUMES

BIG ORE TREATMENT PLANT STARTS UP AGAIN.

TWO ROASTERS ARE BLOWN IN

WILL BE RUNNING 450 TONS CAPACITY IN A WEEK.

TOTAL COST IS $1,250,000

Management Expects to Be Treating 900 Tons a Day by January 1: Will Greatly Increase Output of Cripple Creek District. Milliken Talks.

The first step in the re-opening of the reconstructed Golden Cycle mill in west Colorado Springs was taken yesterday when two of the roasters were blown in. Two more roasters will be blown in Sunday, and within a week the plant will be employ at a capacity of 450 tons. By the first of the year it will be running the full capacity of 900 tons a day.

With its eight furnaces, each of a capacity of 115 tons, it is the largest and one of the most complete mills of its kind in the world. In South Africa there are mills of greater capacity, but they do not calcine their ores. The mill is of the latest and most approved construction throughout and is pronounced to be one of the most efficient and complete ever built. The cost, complete, has been $1,250,000.

An idea of the size of the mills is gained by the fact that it covers nine acres of ground. The steel building covering the roasters is the largest steel structure in the west. There is not an element in the place but the yellow being done by means of [illegible] electric motors. In every job which also the work is performed automatically and therefore cannot [illegible]. From the time the ore leaves the car until the gold bricks are turned out it is untouched by human hands.

In the reconstruction of the mill all of the ideas utilized in the old "Telluride" mill of Philip Argall have been discarded, and everything is planned along different and more efficient lines. In the new mill there are 76 per cent less bearings and it has motors that in the end, for its capacity is 200 tons more per day.

The reconstruction of the mill has been pushed with the greatest rapidity. The greater portion of the old mill was destroyed by fire on April 7, this being 118 days ago.

"We announced that we would complete the rebuilding of the mill within 180 days," said President John T. Milliken, at the Antlers hotel last night, after having conducted an inspection of the mill and witnessed the blowing in of the two roasters. "We missed it by a few days, but are more than satisfied with the work. We have one of the most wonderful and economical mills in the country. It is in fact a factory for the manufacture of gold, and we believe it will be one of the most important things in the development of the Cripple Creek district that has been accomplished in a long time. The plans have been made and the construction of the building has been supervised by the ablest mechanical engineer in the United States, Mr. Franz Casin of Denver. We have discarded every one of the ideas of Philip Argall, although it cost us $300,000."

HER HEART GREW COLD

MRS. SHIRLEY'S LOVE TURNED TO BITTER HATRED.

Refused to Look at Husband's Corpse—Young Woman Still in the Penitentiary.

With the death in the penitentiary at Canon City, two days ago, of her husband, a one-legged cripple, the love that led Mrs. Lettie Shirley to share penitentiary life with him has apparently turned to disgust and hatred, for when informed of his death by the officers she declined to look at his corpse and declared that it was [illegible] that she was led into a life of crime.

Mrs. Shirley is the young woman who, clad in male attire and going under the name of "Ned" Shirley, son of the [illegible], was arrested by the police in this city several months ago after having committed robberies in Colorado City, Colorado Springs and Manitou, traveling with the pair and assisting in the robberies was D. W. Butler and a 14-year-old boy by the name of Patrick Alexander. Among the houses in this district burglarized was Briarhurst, the residence of Dr. W. A. Bell. The police unearthed many trunks and boxes packed with valuable goods ready for shipment to confederates in the south and east, the gang having previously operated all over Arizona and New Mexico.

Governor Haskell in a special message called attention to the needs of numerous state institutions. It calls for appropriations in excess of $1,000,000.

TAKES OWN LIFE

CLARA BLOODGOOD SUICIDES AT BALTIMORE.

FAMOUS ACTRESS KILLS SELF

Lifeless Body Found in Her Room at Hotel Stafford—No Cause for Rash Act Has Been Learned. Her Husband Is Hurrying to Scene.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Clara Bloodgood, the actress, committed suicide by shooting herself in her room at the Hotel Stafford, here this evening.

Mrs. Bloodgood's body was found on a [illegible] bed with a bullet through her mouth. Near her lay a book entitled "How to Shoot Straight" and a weather proofer with three chambers empty. She attended a matinee performance of Albaugh's "Blindfold" and returned to her hotel about 6 o'clock, seemingly in the best of spirits.

Later, when it was time for the curtain to rise for her evening show at the Academy of Music, where she was appearing in "The Truth," she had not put in an appearance. Word was sent to the stafford and a bellboy was sent up to her room. Hearing a pistol shot before he could gain entrance to the room, the boy hurried back to the office and notified the clerks of what he heard. An investigation was made and Mrs. Bloodgood was found stretched on the bed.

Before retiring to her room she had a talk with her stage manager, John Emerson, who declares that he observed nothing unusual in her demeanor. The only motive he can ascribe is that Mrs. Bloodgood feared an attack of nervous prostration. She had been working very hard, he said, and she feared a breakdown. Mrs. Bloodgood left a note addressed to her husband, who is said to be on his way to this city.

Audience Dismissed.

The audience at the Academy of Music was dismissed with the announcement that there would be no performance tonight, owing to a sudden indisposition of Mrs. Bloodgood.

Bernard S. Wess, the bellboy who was sent to Mrs. Bloodgood's room upon the request of the manager of the Academy of Music, when she failed to appear there at her usual time, found difficulty in opening the outer door of the suite, but the inner door, at which he knocked without receiving a reply, resisted his efforts to open it. He persisted, however, and finally managed to open it slightly. Through the aperture he saw Mrs. Bloodgood standing with her back toward him. She was quite naked, but was holding a wrapper in front of her. As Wess hastily closed the door he heard the report of a pistol. Help was hastily summoned, and the door forced. Against it a trunk had been placed. The body of Mrs. Bloodgood was found on the bed, near which Wess had seen her standing, and upon which she had evidently fallen immediately after firing.

Three Shots Fired.

Three shots were fired, according to the coroner, one of which went into the ceiling and the two apparently into the roof of Mrs. Bloodgood's mouth. The revolver used was a new one of a similar, and would seem to have been purchased for the especial purpose for which it was used. Coroner Hayden, after viewing the body, pronounced it an unquestionable case of suicide and gave a permit for its removal to an undertaking parlor. The shots having been fired, to all appearances, with the muzzle of the pistol in the mouth, the wounds did not disfigure the body greatly.

Word has been received that Mrs. Bloodgood's husband, William Lalimber, is hurrying here on a special train, which is expected to arrive in an hour or two after midnight.

Curious Stir in New York.

CORTELYOU HAS NO FIXED PLAN

PROMPTNESS OF ACTION IS, HOWEVER, URGED.

MONEY REFORM IMPERATIVE

CONGRESS SHOULD GIVE MATTER IMMEDIATE ATTENTION.

BANKS HAVE HOARDED MONEY

Depositors Not Alone Responsible for Stringency, Says Secretary of Treasury—Emergency Measures of Department Explained.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Simplicity of plan and promptness of action, in the opinion of Secretary Cortelyou, is what the people need and will demand in the way of legislation affecting currency. The need of improvement in the monetary system of a substantial and permanent character is indicated by the secretary of the Treasury in his annual report, made public today.

New Laws Needed.

"What has been and will be done this year, but many months before," the report states, "should serve as an object lesson to enact wise laws for the prevention in the future of disasters, directly part of them, to the unfortunate organization of our monetary system. What particular form this should take must be left to the action of the Congress. I have no pride of opinion as to the method, but I have the deepest concern that the result shall be absolutely beneficial.

"The only specific recommendation I would make at present is that it be given prompt attention, and that it be not laid aside until some definite measure of relief shall have been enacted into law."

Regarding the emergency measures, Secretary Cortelyou says:

Emergency Measures.

"During the summer the accumulation of large sums of internal revenue for collection, time money, and deposits of commercial bills indicated a progressive elimination in the amount of available cash. Accordingly, it was decided August 6, 1907, to make such work substantial deposits in the different sections of the country, with the particular object of facilitating the fall movement of the crops. In his announcement of this plan the Secretary of Treasury said:

"This action is taken to meet the commercial and industrial needs of the country at this season and is believed to be preferable to waiting until a time of acute stringency, when the only alternative would be a large general deposit. The little policy the Secretary desires to supersede by one which shall form an permanent adjustment of the operations of the Treasury Department, as rapidly as may be practicable under existing law, in such manner as shall preclude their being in any sense a disturbing factor in the business world.

"These distributions were continued weekly until the aggregate amount of $26,000,000 had been so distributed. Notwithstanding this measure, there was a constantly increasing stringency in the monetary centers, which culminated in the forced suspension of several important institutions.

Further extracts from the report follow:

Gold Abroad.

Prior to this crisis the shipments of currency to the west by eastern banks for crop moving purposes had been insignificant. There had been no important shipments of gold abroad, so the monetary stringency seemed to be due, in large measure, to the hoarding of funds by owners thereof who had become apprehensive of their financial safety. As the crisis approached the Department adopted the strongest measures to give material assistance. Within four days there was transferred from the Treasury to the banks the sum of $36,000,000, the security received therefor being such state, municipal, and railroad securities as are acceptable under the laws of the states of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New Jersey as investments by savings banks. On November 11 there were on deposit in national bank depositories:

To the credit of the Treasurer of the United States	$[illegible]
To the credit of disbursing officers	15,677,[illegible]
Total	$[illegible]

This sum was distributed among national banks in every state and territory in the Union.

These deposits and other Treasury operations, in connection with the associated efforts of prominent financiers [illegible] by giving important relief to certain embarrassed institutions and afterwards by providing for the imports of gold, of which up to November 16 there had been engaged more than $[illegible], operated to prevent a dangerous panic. The Secretary of the Treasury has made rapid adjustment of deposits between the various cities and sections as was possible in such a time of financial stress, and through the co-operation of eastern banks has secured the transfer, through the usual commercial channels, of large sums of money to the South, the West, the Northwest, and the Pacific coast. There was, however, great financial distress in many sections of the country and a remarkable scarcity of currency. The clearing houses in nearly all the prominent cities of the United States felt obliged to adopt such measures of relief as they found available. The remarkably sound and prosperous condition of the country would lead to the certain belief that the [illegible] behind us rather than in [illegible].

When the story of the recent financial and industrial disturbance shall have been fully told, I am confident that it will be [illegible] and that the influence of all [illegible]

[illegible] of the country [illegible] understood. It is said [illegible] people have [illegible] deplorably [illegible] banks. WILL OPEN COAL MINE

GOLDEN CYCLE COMPANY WILL ENTER SPRINGS FIELD.

Production of District May Be Doubled in Near Future, President Milliken Talks.

Another mine will be added to Colorado Springs' coal production early next spring. It will be in a new district, being located on the Rock Island road about three miles east of the corporate limits of the city and about the same distance east of the present group of mines at Austin Bluffs. The mine is to be owned by the Golden Cycle Mining company, and will be the first to be opened since the panic of one and two years ago.

Announcement was made last night by President John T. Milliken that coal lands had already been secured in the development work and that machinery is to be ordered immediately. Construction of a shaft house will begin in about a month, and within as short a time as possible the mine will be producing coal.

Mr. Milliken expects the mine to reach a production of 100 tons a day. This will double the local supply, as the production of all the present mines combined just about averages this amount under normal conditions. The coal will be used both to run the Golden Cycle mill in west Colorado Springs and to supply the retail demand in this city.

"Two years ago the Golden Cycle secured by purchase the immense tract of 2,500 acres, extending east from this city along the Rock Island tracks and north as far as Eastonville. The land was known to contain coal deposits, but development work was not begun until recently. The shaft is already down to coal and active production will be begun as soon as buildings and machinery can be placed on the ground.

"We will not belong to the coal trust," said Mr. Milliken at the Antlers hotel last night, "and I wish you would say that emphatically for me. We intend to run independently as long as I have anything to do with the mine, and when I sell out I will see to it that it will not be to the trust."

SUFFERS FATAL STROKE

MRS. SARAH TURNER DIES IN HUSBAND'S ARMS.

Paralysis Comes Unannounced and Claims Well-Known Manitou Woman—Had Not Been Ill.

While apparently in excellent health, and without the slightest warning, Mrs. Sarah Turner of 144 Ute avenue, Manitou, was stricken with paralysis yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock, and a few minutes later fell dead in the arms of her husband, who, hearing her cries of distress from an adjoining room, ran to her assistance.

Mrs. Turner has appeared unusually well all day up to the moment she was stricken. Early in the day she had been busy with her household duties and in the morning completed the family washing. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when her work was finished, she was sitting in the parlor engaged in conversation with her husband. She had arisen to enter another room and had been absent but a moment when he heard her moaning as if suffering intense pain. Just as he sprang to her assistance she swayed and fell into his arms. Death was instantaneous.

Mrs. Sarah Turner was born in London, England, 76 years ago. At an early age she came to America and lived in Decatur, Ill., for several years before coming to Colorado Springs. After ten years' residence in this city [illegible] she has [illegible] husband, J. D. Turner, and a daughter, Mrs. E. R. Co[illegible]

ASSURANCES OF SUPPORT GIVEN

FAIRBANKS AND CANNON WANT WATERWAYS IMPROVED.

IMPORTUNED BY COMMITTEE

MEMORIAL WILL BE PRESENTED TO CONGRESS.

MATTER OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Representatives of Lakes-to-the Gulf Deep Waterways Association Well Received in Washington—Cannon Says Expenditure Is Within the Revenues.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A committee of six of the delegates to the convention at Memphis of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterways association led by President W. K. Kavanaugh, [illegible] Vice President Farrauble, and Speaker Cannon [illegible] presented the memorial adopted by the convention praying for the support of Congress in the project of constructing a canal from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and appropriating an annual appropriation of $[illegible].

In presenting the memorial Mr. President said to Mr. Cannon, among other things in presenting it to the senate and in referring it to the proper committee at the earliest possible moment. Speaking for himself personally, the vice president said: "I want to say that the movement for the improvement of our great waterways, brings my cheerfulness and most efficient support and good will. I am not a recent convert to this general proposition. For a good many years in Indiana we have been advocating and urging more liberal appropriations for the improvement of the Wabash and its navigable affluents. I think, among the questions which engage the attention of the people today, there is not one of greater importance than this. It affects every [illegible] of the country.

Its Importance Overlooked.

"The importance of the subject has been overlooked. I think we have not taken it up early enough. I do not see how there can be any opposition to such a movement as this. I do not understand where it can come from. It is so wide in its beneficent scope.

"Now, and a little more than the time that when a thing is worthy of being done, it should be done quickly. The way we have been proceeding in the development of our waterways, the course we have pursued heretofore has been reassuring in a degree, and to ourselves but to the future our children, children and their children will probably enjoy the fruits of our present efforts. What I think is needed is a wide co-operation, earnest and intelligent, and forceful co-operation, to the end that this work be taken up vigorously and in a scientific way, so that the present generation may enjoy some of the fruits of our efforts."

No Bond Issue Recommended.

Speaker Cannon greeted the committee cordially and at once went to the point by asking whether the memorial recommended a bond issue for the proposed expense. Mr. Malone of the committee replied that while some of the delegates to the convention expected such a recommendation to be made, it had been omitted.

"I wanted to see," said the speaker, "if you had specialized. I was under the impression that a resolution was adopted that looked toward the improvement in a businesslike way of the waterways of the United States, and if there was any specification then it was that the waterways should be joined to the unsettled seas with the Gulf of Mexico, which, by inference, if not by construction, was indicated as the important and probably the most important thing to be done.

"I would hesitate long and that is the reason I asked you the question—to vote to issue a thousand million, or five hundred million, or one hundred million, or five million of dollars of the securities of the government for improvement of rivers and harbors. I am not sure that the entire second thought of the country would approve and I am glad you left it out of your recommendations, because, in my judgment, choosing the most practical projects, this great country must survey the field before [illegible] ready to commence work.

Expenditure Within the Revenues.

The expenditures will be within the revenues and something left. We have already got $240,000,000 of surplus in the treasury—quite enough to pay for a vigorous prosecution of all things that are being prosecuted in the way of work and quite enough to get ready just as fast as possible with surveys, plans and estimates. Now then, any representative who is accountable to his people, would, in my judgment, be an ass to rush in and vote $500,000,000 or a thousand million of bonds when we could not get ready in two years to spend five per cent of it. We have got to have something for the next [illegible] to go together.

[illegible]

up and they will speak for themselves and make others easier. That is what we have got to do in this matter."

HARVESTER CO. A TRUST

Unlawful Combination to Control Prices Proven in Kansas Court.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 5.—After hearing all day the case in the case of the state against the International Harvester company, Judge Hazen of Atchison, sitting as a court, ousted the company on 11 counts. The charges preferred against the company were that it had entered into an unlawful combination to control the prices of harvesting machinery and to force dealers to handle its products exclusively. The original charge was on 25 counts.

Immediately following the decision of the court, the attorneys for the company filed a motion for a new trial. Judge Hazen has not yet passed on the motion. The maximum penalty which may be imposed is $500 on each count, making a total of $5,500, which may be assessed by the court against the company.

CAN'T HANDLE THE BUSINESS

J. J. Hill Creates Great Enthusiasm at Rivers and Harbors Congress Convention—Delegates Demand $500,000,000. Many Speakers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A notable feature of the Rivers and Harbors congress convention, now in session in this city, was the address delivered by James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway company, who introduced to the congress as "a wizard of transportation and the greatest railroad builder in the world."

Mr. Hill created great enthusiasm among the delegates by declaring that the railroads of the country would furnish terminals for the proper development of the legitimate waterways of the United States. He produced figures to show that the traffic of the country had become so great and increasing so tremendously it was beyond physical powers of the railroads to handle. He made a most important statement on the attitude of railroads toward the legislation which has been directed against rail carriers in America, and declared that all the railroads asked was permission to conduct their business in a proper way, under fair regulations and fair laws.

Notable addresses also were delivered to the congress by governors of states and by other men prominently identified with the political and commercial life of the nation. Among those present today at the session of the convention were scores of members of Congress, upon whom it is the desire of the convention that its ideas be particularly impressed. The convention will conclude its work tomorrow by the adoption of a series of resolutions incorporating its ideas that a comprehensive national scheme for the improvement of the internal waterways of the country should be crystallized into law.

Very Important Letter Today.

Governor Glenn of North Carolina, one of the speakers today, declared that the matter before this congress was the most important that had been approached in the last 100 years. Continuing he said:

"As Secretary of State Root said yesterday, we have reached the bridge. I say to you that we not only have reached the bridge, but we must cross the bridge this year.

"We demand the deepening of our rivers and harbors. We will take no denial. We must have $500,000,000 for the improvement of rivers and harbors, paid in sums of $50,000,000 every year."

President Finley of the Southern Railway, in an address, pointed out that it was the policy of the Southern to encourage establishment of coastwise steamer lines, as he believed that the providing of additional facilities for water transportation would increase the population and prosperity of the seaboard community and thus benefit the railways.

Panama Canal a Benefit.

"In the same way," [illegible] believe that the construction of the Panama canal will benefit, rather than injure, the transcontinental railways, as it will tend to build up the Pacific coast states, and while taking [illegible] traffic from the [illegible] will also [illegible] increased traffic of other sorts.

FIRES ON LABOR LEADERS

EDWARD COHEN AND D. D. DRISCOLL VICTIMS.

FORMER SHOT THROUGH HEAD

J. A. Steele, Out of Asylum on Parole, Sought Life of Governor Because of Illusion That He Was Not Getting His Rights.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—An insane man walked into the anteroom of the executive chamber of the state house today, and, finding Governor Guild absent, turned on three prominent laborleaders and fired three shots at them, probably fatally wounding Edward Cohen of Lynn, president of the Boston branch of the American Federation of Labor, seriously wounding Dennis D. Driscoll of Boston, secretary of the same body, and injuring, with the muzzle of his pistol, Arthur M. Huddell of Boston, former president of the Central Labor union of this city.

The insane man, who was John A. Steele of Everett, and who was released on parole last month from the Danvers insane asylum, was overpowered by Private Secretary Charles S. Groves and General J. H. Whitney, chief of the state police.

Governor Helps Overpower Steele.

Governor Guild was in his office only a few feet away. He rushed out, assisted in subduing Steele, then knelt by Cohen's side and subsequently directed the removal of the wounded men to the hospital. Cohen was shot twice through the head, and was in a critical condition at the Massachusetts General hospital tonight. The third bullet struck Driscoll a glancing blow on the side of the head, [illegible] wound over the head, [illegible] him unconscious. He [illegible] Huddell's wound, which was at first supposed to be an alarming one, was quickly dressed and will probably cause him little inconvenience.

The three labor leaders came to the state house today to meet Governor Guild by appointment in regard to a pardon for A. M. Kennedy of Salem, who is serving a sentence in the Essex house of correction. They reached the state house shortly after 3 o'clock and found that the governor was receiving a delegation from Rhode Island. The three labor men were asked to wait in one of the anterooms until the man should leave. All three were standing beside a long table, conversing pleasantly, while at the farther end of the room Private Secretary Groves was dictating a letter to the executive stenographer.

Fires Without Warning.

William Reed, the colored messenger of the department, was seated at his desk within a few feet of the labor men. Suddenly Steele appeared at the door of the room from the hallway, and without announcing his mission walked by the doorkeeper and messenger, and then glanced toward Governor Guild's room, which was about 20 feet away. Seeing the door closed, Steele turned around, and, drawing a revolver, fired at Cohen, who was about six feet away.

Cohen's back was turned, and the bullet struck the back of his head, passing directly through and coming out at the forehead, driving a great

TRIP IS NOW ASSURED

TERRORS TO PLAY DELTA, OGDEN AND BUTTE.

Negotiations for Projected Holiday Tour Meeting With Success.

The projected trip for the Colorado Springs High School Tigers now seems practically assured, with games at Delta, Ogden and Butte. The team, under Francis Richards' direction, yesterday resumed training and held a light practice on the athletic field on Uintah street, the first since the winning of the state championship on Thanksgiving day. For one to six weeks, Capital Morrison and his men will hold daily practices.

While negotiations have not been officially concluded, prospects are entirely favorable for the three games, which will probably be scheduled as follows:

December 21—Delta High school.
December 26—Ogden High school.
January 1—Butte High school.

Word has been received at the Salt Lake City by the effect that the Utah school champions is willing to undertake games as it has defeated for the state championship, the Ogden High school. Negotiations are pending for a game between Colorado day game with Boise Higher [illegible] of the Northwest, [illegible] having [illegible] the coast [illegible] the coming [illegible] Springs team in the south. As these already are practically assured, there is a possibility that Coach Stagg will arrange for the team to stop at Chicago on its way to the Pacific coast for a game with the Tigers on Christmas day, and then take the New Year's game. The Delta game is assured, as is one with Ogden, but the Butte game fails to materialize, the tigers will at least get a trip to the western slope.

Such a trip would be fitting for the Christmas vacation, three games being just about enough to keep the team [illegible] during the two weeks. It was at first thought that the team might go as far north on the Pacific coast, but Spokane and Seattle high schools, the two strongest with which negotiations were opened, we have been informed that they are unwilling to make the necessary guarantees.

Three times champions of Colorado, the local High School feels reasonably confident of its ability to add still further to its athletic laurels in its games with the strongest teams in the west. A string of victories over these three local teams will establish practically its right to the interscholastic championship of Western United States.

MAY SECURE COCHEMS

TIGERS NEGOTIATING WITH FAMOUS ST. LOUIS COACH.

Successful Football Mentor of Missouri Valley Wants to Come to Colorado.

There is a possibility that Eddie Cochems, for the last two years coach of the St. Louis university football team, champions of the Missouri valley, may be secured to coach the Colorado College team. The great football coach has done wonderful work at St. Louis, but is not satisfied with his position there, and has opened up negotiations with the local college authorities relative to taking charge of the Tigers in 1908.

Nothing definite has been done, and, according to Manager McCreery of the football team, there is nothing as yet to warrant the belief that the famous St. Louis football mentor may be secured. It is admitted, however, the negotiations have been opened, but as yet with little success.

Cochems is a graduate and former football star of the University of Wisconsin, the alma mater of Principal John R. Richards of the High School, who for the last year has been advisory coach, and for the two previous years coach of the Colorado College football team. Because of his duties as principal of the High School, it is doubtful if he will be able to assist in coaching the Tigers another season.

Cochems' career as a football coach at St. Louis university during the last two years has been remarkable and has brought him before the attention of the football world in a rapid manner. Taking a team in a school which had hardly been heard of previously in athletic circles, he has produced, for the last two years, teams which have won the honors in the Missouri valley. This year his team defeated Nebraska, Thanksgiving day, by a score of 31 to 0, and was victorious over Kansas, Missouri and other big teams of the section. Cochems has been particularly successful in developing new rules and claims are made for him that, with the exception of Coach Stagg of Chicago, he was the only western coach to realize the possibilities of the play during the first season of its legality.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT SOPH SPY

Charge Indignantly Denied by Upper Classmen—Both Sides Prepare for Struggle Tomorrow.

A wild rumor emanated from Washburn field last night. It was charged by the freshmen that a sophomore had been detected spying upon their secret practice in preparation for the big football of the season tomorrow afternoon. The freshmen believe that they have a valuable team, and that they have several plays which are far superior to anything seen on the gridiron in Colorado this fall, even surpassing the famous offense of the regular Tigers and the versatile attack of the Tech's.

It is upon this wonderful offense that they rely to defeat their hated rivals, the sophomores. According when the rumor began floating around the campus it struck consternation into the hearts of the first-year men, who had planned to surprise the sophs. The upper classmen indignantly deny the rumor and say that the freshmen are spreading it as an excuse to use after the game to explain why their plays were so easily stopped.

The game tomorrow on Washburn field will undoubtedly be a fierce struggle, both sides admit this much. The opposing lineups have been announced unofficially, and the eligibility committee will hold a special session today to sift the charges that some of these men actually know the difference between a touchdown and a Princeton. The opposing warriors are:

Freshmen	Sophomores
Moberly	Conklin
[illegible]	Roe
Hall	Draper
Steele	Hozan
Hamilton	Gipe
Height	Shaw
Van Stone	Jardine, Recks
Fowler	Jones, Putcam
Dees	Siddons, Hyder
Work	LeGaire
Wrinkle	Williston

The coeds of both classes have organized enthusiastic rooting clubs.

Choked to Death

Is commonly said of babies who have died of the croup. How unnecessary this is. No child ever had the croup without having a cold or cough at the start. If you will stop the first symptom of the cough with Ballard's Horehound Syrup there is no danger, whatever of croup. Sold by all dealers.

TAKES OWN LIFE

all are at a loss to assign a cause.

Mrs. Bloodgood has been starring under the management of Charles Frohman in "The Truth," a play by Clyde Fitch. In it she has been eminently successful, her impersonation of the wife who fabricates to her husband having been highly praised.

It was on January 1, 18[illegible] that Mrs. Bloodgood first essayed a role as a professional actress. The play was "The Conquerors," and her part of Elode Owen Angell. Her subsequent parts with Annie Russell in the play "Catherine," and in "Proof." She appeared in 1899 as Julia Godesby in "The Climbers," and in 1901 in "The Way of the World." Mrs. Bloodgood's acting was highly commended, and at the season in [illegible], in 1902, she took the leading role in "The Girl With the Green Eyes." In 1904, she appeared in "The Coronet of a Duchess." She also has enacted the role of Violet in "The Man and Superman."

The Correct Time

to stop a cough or cold is just as soon as it starts—then there will be no danger of pneumonia or consumption. Just a few doses of Ballard's Horehound Syrup taken at the start will stop the cough. If it has been running on for some time the treatment will be longer, but the cure is sure. Sold by all dealers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt entertained at luncheon today Governor Comins of Iowa, Governor Cox of Alabama, Governor Pardee of California, Henry S. Fleer, acting chairman of the national Republican committee, Dr. Charles [illegible] and Dr. [illegible].

TROOPS ORDERED OUT

WILL MOVE AT ONCE TO GOLDFIELD, NEV.

General Funston Receives Orders From Roosevelt—Tonopah in Unsettled Condition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt tonight instructed General Funston to dispatch a sufficient force of regulars to Goldfield to control the situation there. This action was taken upon receipt of telegraphic request from the governor of Nevada. The troops will proceed from San Francisco and the strength of the expedition is left to the judgment of General Funston. Goldfield is about fourteen hours by rail from San Francisco.

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 5.—Governor Sparks confirmed the report that he had asked the government for the militia to hold the situation in hand, both for the protection of the mines and property of the miners and mine owners of the camp.

Late this afternoon he stated that the troops would be sent, that he expected two companies would leave the Presidio at San Francisco tomorrow. This will practically place the town of Goldfield under martial law. The action of the Tonopah mine owners in closing their mines has in a measure complicated matters, and it may be necessary to send troops to that town in conjunction with Goldfield, the two being only 26 miles apart. Governor Sparks states that his reasons for asking for federal aid is to fully protect both classes. The conservative element of miners in both camps have signified a willingness to go to work, while the radicals have given notice that, should they go to work, trouble will follow. Thus with troops on the same ground, in the belief of the governor that conflicts will be averted. The situation is being watched with the greatest care from the executive building in this city.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Dec. 5.—The mine owners' committee, which advised Governor Sparks to make the request for federal troops, states that it is only a precautionary measure, suggested by the recollection of the terror of the Cripple Creek and Coeur d'Alene strikes. The mine owners are preparing to start up with nonunion miners. As this camp is strongly unionized and led by desperate agitators, driven from the state and one camp to another, the attempt to resume operations as an open camp will be resisted. Nonunion miners will have to be imported, and a conflict will surely occur.

That the miners have been quietly but industriously preparing for trouble is evidenced by the fact that they have 500 stands of arms in their quarters. Last night a large quantity of powder was stolen from the Bech'ring and other depredations are taking place in the outlying districts. The streets of Goldfield are quiet and there is an entire absence of loafing, brawling or excitement and heated controversy. On the surface Goldfield is enjoying a holiday.

COUNCIL OF COMMERCE

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION IS FORMED AT WASHINGTON.

Representatives of Trade Organizations Called Together by Secretary Straus.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The national council of commerce with a membership starting with 30 odd organizations of business men in the larger cities, and expected ultimately to embrace practically all the leading commercial bodies in the country, was formally launched at a conference in the office of Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus today. The meeting was attended by delegates of chambers of commerce, boards of trade and other organizations called together by Secretary Straus to promote close relations between the department and the commercial bodies of the United States. Secretary Root and Secretary Straus addressed the meeting and later the conference was formally organized. Gustave H. Schwab of New York was made chairman, committees were appointed to perfect the organization and much progress made in carrying out a scheme presented by Mr. Straus, which he characterized as a tentative one for the consideration of delegates. Before adjournment the committees, those on organization and rules, made their reports and the scheme as suggested by Mr. Straus was adopted.

The scheme prescribes that the council's functions shall be to keep the department of commerce and labor informed of the needs and desires of the business world, as formulated by responsible commercial and industrial organizations, representing internal trade and foreign commerce, both export and import and possibly transportation, and also to keep business communities informed regarding the work of the department, its plans, methods and results.

HOUSES ADJOURN TILL MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. The senate was in session for an hour and a half, adjourning at 1:30 o'clock until Monday. Senator Wm. P. Frye of Maine, was elected president pro tem of the senate, Senator Daniel of Virginia, being given a complimentary vote for the honor by his Democratic colleagues. The resolutions of Senators Clay and Culberson, calling on the secretary of the treasury for information concerning the recent bond issue by the government, were allowed to go over until Monday, when they will probably be some debate. Some of the session was taken up by introduction of bills.

The house was in session 18 minutes and transacted no business beyond agreeing to make responsible to the rulings of the new speaker of Canada. The House also adjourned until Monday.

adoption by federal and state governments of such railway regulations as will involve the minimum of interference with the operation of economic laws consistent with the protection of buyers of transportation and the public generally from wrong."

Burton Is Cheered

Chairman Ransdell, in presenting Representative Burton of Ohio, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of the House of Representatives, said that the country had reached a new era in the improvement of internal waterways, particularly through the efforts of Mr. Burton. The delegates rose and cheered Mr. Burton heartily.

Mr. Burton declared that the movement for the improvement of the inland waterways had been stimulated by the unparalleled growth of the country in its resources. He said there was admitted inadequacy in the transportation facilities of the United States, and it was with a purpose of improving facilities that such congresses as this had taken up the work. He said that the national Congress largely had eliminated "log rolling" in behalf of special projects and that such individual projects were now allowed to take care of themselves. He believed it unquestionable that appropriations for improvements of rivers and harbors would be increased in the near future, because it was conceded by all who had devoted study to the matter that the railroads were unable to care for all the freight offered for transportation.

Advocates Co-operation.

"We are going ahead by leaps and bounds," said he, "and we have come upon a time when the railroads of the country cannot begin to take care of the traffic. In this situation the internal waterways are not only convenient but necessary. The field of operation between the railways and the waterways will be divided naturally between them, and I hope to see a greater degree of co-operation between the railways and the waterways than heretofore exhibited.

"This is a great national policy which we are advocating which interests not divided in proportion to the population or the wealth of the states. In my opinion we should avoid the making of drubbing appropriations for any particular project, but once a project is begun, it ought to be finished."

At this point Mr. Burton was interrupted by a delegate of the congress who inquired what he had to propose in the way of appropriations.

"Well," said Mr. Burton, "I can stand by your platform of $50,000,000 a year. Of course, that question can be answered only by concrete conditions. We must cut out visionary projects, and such an operation will necessitate common standing up against them."

Mr. Burton said that personally he was opposed to the putting on rivers and harbors bills projects for the irrigation of lands, as he did not believe that these measures should be made the dumping ground of projects for all sorts of water distribution.

In conclusion, Mr. Burton said:

"It is my earnest desire to withdraw from the rivers and harbors committee, of which I have had the honor to be chairman a long time, but as a member of Congress and as a member of this body I will be ready at all times to co-operate with you in the projects which are so dear to you and which are dear to me."

DARING BANK ROBBERY

WHOLE TOWN HELD AT BAY BY STEADY RIFLE FIRE.

Safe in Carney, Okla., Institution Robbed of $4,000 by Use of Nitroglycerin.—Escape.

CARNEY, Okla., Dec. 5.—Five men at an early hour this morning succeeded, after firing five nitroglycerin shots in breaking into the roll safe of the Carney bank and secured $4,000.

The burglary was the most desperate on record in the new state. While two men, time after time charged the safe cracks with nitroglycerin, and explosion after explosion shattered and broke up bank furniture, the other robbers stood guard on the outside of the building and kept up a steady rifle fire in every direction, shooting at any citizen of the town who made an appearance. Throughout proceed, a general alarm was sounded. Church bells were rung and the citizens, arming themselves, were preparing to make a charge when the robbers calmly walked down the main street of the town and vanished in the darkness.

All effort to trail the men have failed. They are known to have calmly walked into the town, robbing the bank and without rush or hurry, facing coolly at those who exposed themselves, the men walked out.

A large posse with bloodhounds is scouring the district for some clue, but have utterly failed. It is thought the gang is the same that robbed the bank at Marshall, two weeks ago, and as a result, of these robberies banks in smaller towns are placing guards in the buildings.

"THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH"

Good Play Comes Dangerously Near Being Spoiled—Small Audience Sees Production.

This is the day of western plays. Last season scored several winners and none of them shows sign of diminishing popularity. Just why this should be is hard to say. Perhaps it is because they assume to depict a phase of life that is intensely interesting to the spectator in spite of its originality—perhaps and this is probably the true reason—the average spectator doesn't the faintest idea that such life is almost as foreign to the west as it is to China. However this may be, we are having a surfeit of so-called western plays which have nothing at all in common with the West, but this isn't saying that most of them are not good plays. They may be, and generally are, well-constructed, and possess a certain kind of dramatic strength, but insofar as they assume to give a correct idea of life in western stock raising or mining communities they are more travesties. Neither cowboys as are shown in "The Virginian" or in "The Squaw Man" ever lived outside of their not in this part of the world, and the hobbledehoy miners who perform ludicrous antics in "The Heir to the Hoorah" at the Opera House last night are as purely an imaginative type as is "Peter Pan." Though of a very different sort. After seeing the characters one might be justified in supposing that the authors derive their entire stock of both information and inspiration from Dick Lightle and the comic supplements.

Part Always Overdone.

Where and how and by whom was originated that absurd creature so universally accepted as the really and truly westerner—the awkward, uncouth, rough-mannered, but always honest, warm-hearted and intensely loyal chap who is ready to ride through blood up to his bridle bit in defense of his "pal" or of a woman? He is always a [illegible] blustering idiot who makes foolish comment concerning everything that pertains to civilization; he always has his hands on his gun as if it were the only thing that stood between him and an immediate [illegible] death, and he is always stricken with the most [illegible] cast you by the mere presence of a woman. And finally is always the soul of honesty, the embodiment of instinctive chivalry, the personification of chaste, but unmistakable loyalty. His heart is always in the right place. Whether you know what the play is to be or not, it is always safe to place a bet on this point even before the curtain rises. And this product of the playwright's vivid imagination is presented nightly to audiences all over the country as the really representive type of the present-day rural westerner.

Deserved Better House.

All this merely by way of preface to the remark that "The Heir to the Hoorah," which was seen at the Opera House last night for the second time in Colorado Springs, is a good play which comes dangerously near being spoiled by being overloaded with this kind of characters. They are amusing, it is true, but the fitness of things would be better observed if they were presented only in plays which are frankly and undisguisedly put forward as travesties on the life they depict. But aside from this defect "The Heir to the Hoorah" is an entertaining play and deserved a far bigger audience than it had. The house was two-thirds empty.

The present company is decidedly inferior to the one seen here last season. Frank Monroe, who has played Cass Bates Post in the leading part of Joe Lacey, is an actor of fair ability, and his evident earnestness compensates to some degree for his artistic shortcomings. None of the other male principals is worthy of particular notice, so it must be admitted that the [illegible] that played the various miners did it with fidelity to their conception of the roles. Alice Morrell as Mrs. Lacey, wife of Joe, scarcely rises above the level of mediocrity, and Martha Mayo as Mrs. Kluff, the uncertious mother-in-law, is in about the same class. Helen Lackaye gives a pleasing personation as Mrs. Kate Brandon.

been the dealings with depositary banks and the manner of disposing of accumulating revenues. For the first quarter the excess of ordinary receipts over expenditures, the deposit of lawful money in excess of national bank notes redeemed, together with the proceeds of the Panama Canal bond sale, amounted to $10,[illegible], which was restored to the channels of trade by direct deposits in national banks, aggregating $[illegible]700,000, increasing the balance therein to $121,[illegible] by October 1.

For the second quarter, in the [illegible] from the first two sources previously named was $[illegible], while the balance in depositary banks to the credit of the general fund had grown to $[illegible] by January 1, an increase of $[illegible] since October 1. The treasury also purchased $2,[illegible] principal of the interest-bearing debt. For the third quarter the excess from the two sources named amounted to $25,[illegible], of which $7,[illegible] was deposited in national banks, increasing the balance therein to $[illegible] by April 1. The treasury also purchased and redeemed $14,151,250 principal of the interest-bearing debt. For the fourth quarter the net excess from the two sources named amounted to $34,[illegible], of which $12,[illegible] was deposited in national banks, increasing the balance therein to $167,[illegible] by July 1, and the treasury redeemed $[illegible] principal of the interest-bearing debt. In the meantime (April 2), the residue of the 4 per cent loan of 1907, about $[illegible], after refunding operations were completed, was called for redemption, interest on same to cease on July 2, 1907, and in order to provide for the payment thereof a call was made upon the depositary banks June 12 for the return, by July 10, of $20,[illegible] of the public moneys held by them.

Production of Gold.

During the calendar year 1906 it is estimated that the production of gold in the United States was $[illegible]

The amount consumed in the industrial arts during the year is reported to have been $29,126,[illegible], of which $[illegible] was new material.

During the fiscal year [illegible] ounces of silver bullion were purchased for the coinage of subsidiary pieces at an average of $0.[illegible] plus per ounce [illegible] fine. When purchases were resumed the supply of silver in the treasury was low and the mints were behindhand in filling coin purchases necessary. Since a fair stock has been accumulated the policy has been adopted of spreading the purchases uniformly over the year to avoid making the treasury an obstacle and disturbing factor in the market.

Secret Service.

The Secret Service Division reports a continued and satisfactory decrease in the number of offenses against the currency of the United States. Of 15 new counterfeit issues discovered and described during the fiscal year only five were in the "deceptive" class, and the circulation of even the best of the counterfeits was very much restricted. Most of the counterfeits bespeak the work of novices or ignorant foreigners. In the coin counterfeits the spurious dollars and halves made of lowgrade silver were almost wholly disappointed and the volume of base-metal counterfeits showed a material reduction from the previous year. There were only 216 prosecutions for counterfeiting as compared with 265 ten years ago and [illegible] the previous year.

Attention is called to the persistent circulation of notes of defunct banking and railway corporations which so closely resemble the federal currency as to be readily accepted by those not thoroughly familiar with all of the genuine issues, and legislation is suggested to cover this offense, which is not adequately dealt with in any of the existing Revised Statutes.

State Bonds and Stocks.

The following statement shows the nonpaying state bonds and stocks, formerly in the Indian trust fund, now in the Treasury, belonging to the United States:

Louisiana	$ 3[illegible]
North Carolina	5[illegible]
Tennessee	[illegible]
Total	$[illegible]

A history of these state stocks and bonds is given in House Document No. 2[illegible], Fifty-fourth Congress, second session.

Section 1 of the act approved March 4, 1907, entitled, "An act to amend the national banking act, and for other purposes," increased from $3,000 to $[illegible],000 per month the amount of lawful money which might be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States for the retirement of the circulating notes of national banks.

Owing to the currency stringency which has existed for the past two months, the national banks have taken out circulation in large amounts (from October 1 to November 29, $38,546,[illegible]). It is not difficult to foresee that at a period not very remote these banks will not only be in position to retire a large amount of this circulation, but should be encouraged to do so. It is therefore recommended and urged that the act referred to be further amended, and limitation upon such retirement of circulation be left within the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Bank Reserves.

Under existing law a national bank located in a city which is not a reserve city must maintain 15 per cent of its deposits as a reserve. It may count its 5 per cent redemption fund, held for the redemption of national bank notes, as a part of the reserve, and after deducting this fund it may deposit three-fifths of the remainder in some bank in a reserve city. The national banks located in reserve cities and in central reserve cities must maintain 25 per cent of their deposits as a reserve, and they may count their 5 per cent redemption fund as a part of the same, and the banks located in reserve cities may deposit 50 per cent of the remainder of their reserves in banks in central reserve cities. There are three central reserve cities, New York, Chicago and St. Louis. There are about 46 other reserve cities.

According to the report of the condition of national banks on August 27, 1907, the amount of lawful money held by all the national banks in the country was $1,[illegible]. Of this amount about $[illegible],000,000 was held in the three central reserve cities as deposits of banks located in the 46 other reserve cities. A further amount, which can not be estimated, was also deposited in the central reserve cities as counting the three-fifths reserve which all other banks might so deposit. Assuming that the deposits in central reserve cities by banks not located in reserve cities to be $[illegible],000,000, the amount so held by the central reserve cities would be approximately $[illegible]. The total amount held by central reserve [illegible] due to national banks [illegible] that nearly one-half of the lawful money held by the national banks in the country by the central reserve cities consisted of deposits made by national bank outside of the central reserve cities.

It will be [illegible] to note that the [illegible] of 1907 [illegible]

Bond Transactions.

With the present February incumbent charge of the Treasury Department, March 5, 1907, there was an available cash balance of $[illegible], of which $[illegible] consisted of deposits in national bank depositaries. These deposits included the sum of $2,[illegible] approximately, which had been lodged with the banks in September, 1906, with the understanding that they were to be returned to the Treasury during the winter and supplying treasury requirements. Owing to unfavorable conditions which appeared after these deposits had been made, my predecessor refrained from calling on the banks for their return, and as on March 5 there appeared to be no immediate need of the return of the money to the Treasury, the banks were permitted for a further time to retain the deposits.

The 4 per cent funded loan of 1907, by its terms, was redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after July 1, 1907. The amount outstanding March 1, 1907, was $[illegible], and small amounts of the bonds were being presented from day to day for sale at par, with interest to April 1. As it was advisable, owing to the demand for money in all sections of the country, to increase the disbursements from the Treasury, the owners of the 4 per cents were invited by a circular published March 4 to surrender their bonds for redemption with interest to July 1 in an amount not exceeding $25,000,000. Under this circular there were redeemed, between [illegible] 1907, inclusive, and June 24, registered and coupon bonds to the amount of $[illegible]. Meanwhile the disposal of the remainder of the loan was considered.

Receipts and Expenditures.

The receipts of the government from all sources during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907, were $[illegible]. The expenditures for the same period were $[illegible]. This shows a surplus of $[illegible].

In addition to the revenues collected during the year and the moneys received on the liquidation of Pacific railroads, the cash in the treasury was increased $[illegible] by the issue of 4 per cent bonds in liquidation of interest accrued and funding certificates converted during the year.

Customs.

The fiscal year ended June 30, 1907, was by far the greatest in the customs history of the country. The total value of imports of merchandise during the year was $[illegible], an increase of more than $[illegible] over the preceding year, and for the third successive year the largest in the country's history. The imports of merchandise have almost doubled in value since 1896. The customs duties collected in the past year amount to $[illegible], an increase of $[illegible] over 1906, which up to that time was the greatest year in point of customs receipts. For the third successive year the value of the exports of domestic merchandise has also been the largest known, amounting to $[illegible], over $[illegible] more than in 1906.

An idea of the customs business done during the past year can be gained from the fact that at the port of New York the number of packages examined was [illegible], nearly [illegible] more than during the previous year, and the appraised value of merchandise brought into that port was $[illegible], an increase of $[illegible] over that reported for 1906.

The year 1906 was for the German trade unions a period of extremely successful work. The aggregate membership of all existing unions increased about 25 per cent.

It is easy for a man to be patient if he has nothing at stake.

The Lunch Counter

Is the Cause of Dyspepsia and Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Heart Disease.

Nine-Tenths of Those Who Eat There Bolt Down Their Food.

The next time you eat at a lunch-counter just you watch the people opposite. Look down the whole line and notice how they bolt down their food, washing it down with hot coffee or cold water. First they take a large bite, then a drink, a bite and a drink, hurrying through their meal in five or ten minutes.

Many of them don't know the correct way to eat, while others are so intent on money-making that they will not take the time to eat properly.

The lunch counters create a great demand for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, for every one now knows that they assist the stomach in digesting the food that has been suddenly forced down into it.

Health should be the first thing sought for in the battle for existence. With a sound body all things are possible to man, while ill-health handicaps him.

The dyspeptic is usually grouchy and [illegible] to fellowman in the proper spirit to win his confidence and esteem. Many a fine proposition has failed because a dyspeptic was back of it.

Your brain does not work right where dyspeptic conditions prevail, neither does any organ of the body.

Get your digestive apparatus in perfect condition first and all will go well with you.

Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets until you cure yourself of indigestion, catarrh of the stomach and dyspepsia, and your heart, liver, brain and all the organs of the body will perform their functions properly, and you will be in sound health.

Don't give up in despair, but get right and all things will come your way and fortune will smile upon you.

You can purchase Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets [illegible], and have thousands a family necessity everywhere. They are 50 cents per package.

MADMAN AFTER GOVERNOR GUILD

splash of blood to the wall opposite and beside a picture of Abraham Lincoln. The wounded man turned, only to receive another bullet in the head, which also passed completely through Cohen's rank, unconscious to the floor and Steele turned around and fired at Driscoll, the bullet inflicting a severe scalp wound.

Driscoll also fell unconscious to the floor. Huddell, in attempting to close on the man, was struck on the cheek by the muzzle of the revolver and knocked down, but Steele made no attempt to fire again. By this time Private Secretary Groves had leaped over a table and grappled with Steele, and almost at the same moment General Whitney, who had been summoned to the Kennedy hearing, came through the door and rushed to the assistance of Mr. Groves. Huddell also jumped up and wrenched the revolver away.

Cohen Will Probably Die.

The doctors, after a hasty examination of Cohen and Driscoll, expressed the opinion that the former's wound would probably prove fatal, but that the wound in Mr. Driscoll's head would not be anything more than a serious scalp affair. The two wounded men were conveyed to the Massachusetts General hospital. Mr. Huddell was bleeding from the wound in his cheek and he was also taken to the hospital.

Several of the state officials said after the shooting that Steele was a well-known character in the board of insanity and that he had an illusion he was not getting his rights, for which he held the governor responsible.

WILL GO ON WITH WORK

Union Pacific Will Resume Construction of Bridges and Culverts.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 6.—General Manager Mohler of the Union Pacific today announced that work will be resumed at once on the bridges and culverts of the Pecos cutoff. When all construction work was stopped by the Union Pacific five weeks ago, it was announced it would be for the winter. But Mr. Mohler says it was found that public interests were being obstructed and rather than let the temporary bridges the company has decided to go on with the permanent work.

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

THE sixtieth congress has before it an amount of possible work which might well equal any legislative body on earth. It is said that 2,500 bills were introduced into the Fifty-ninth Congress, and there will be at least as many in this. The great mass of these are comparatively unimportant, but of those bills that were considered important enough by the President to put in his message, there are something like fifty, and some of these are big enough to occupy a session each in itself.

First in importance is the congress now in the appropriation bills, and under them properly come some of the recommendations that have been made by the President, such for instance as those in regard to the Army and the Navy, the postal service, the Agriculture Department, and the scientific work of the Government in all its forms. These will occupy a large part of the time of the committees, which longest in preparation, then the time they occupy in debate. But even so, it is a matter of weeks to get through the big bills of this kind, after they have been thoroughly threshed out and passed upon by the committees.

Out of the mass of topics presented by the President we believe there are two which are likely to occupy most of his time which will be devoted to big measures. The tariff is out of the way for now, the Republican side want it revised now, and the Democrats will have to be content to make revision a campaign issue next year, as they undoubtedly will. The two things we refer to are currency legislation and corporation legislation. There will be many bills of minor importance, some of them exceedingly important, coming into the horizon of those directly interested, which will be passed, but of the great measures we believe attention will be mostly concentrated on these two.

It is said that the matter of a currency bill has been passed up to the Senate. For, means that it will be a long thing before the measure gets to the House; for in the Senate the time for debate is unlimited—or limited only for general consent—and the subject will be gone over thoroughly both in committee and in open session before a bill is sent over to the other end of the Capitol. The chances are that it will be a conservative bill, interfering as little as possible with existing law, and providing simply for the issue of some kind of emergency currency in times of stress.

As for further regulation of corporations, chaos prevails. We do not believe the President's recommendations will be adopted as a whole. We doubt whether the idea of a Federal license for corporations doing an interstate business will take with the majority of the Senate. There will be great opposition to going any further at the present time. In fact, it is totally impossible to predict the outcome. They might do worse than repeal the Sherman anti-trust law and let it go at that, but it is probable that a revised form of this will be retained in the discussion of the general subject, whether any specific measure goes through or not.

If this Congress does good work on the general appropriation bills, and enacts some measure which will prevent a stringency of currency in the future so far as legislation can prevent it, it may rest on its record with some confidence.

BUY IT NOW AND HERE.

WITH Christmas less than three weeks away it behooves everybody who intends to make any Christmas gifts to be thinking about them. And of course everybody is going to give something—there is none so poor as not to have one to whom good will can be shown. To all such we would commend the idea that now is the time to think about them, and here is the place to get them. Don't put it off till the week before Christmas—you will be more undecided then than you are now as to what you had better get, and you will not have as good a variety to select from. Do not try some kind of "mail-order" gift, because you don't know what you are getting, and it may turn out altogether unsatisfactory when it comes. Go to your own local stores and shops and look around. They have an almost infinite variety, and you will be hard to please indeed if you do not find something in a few minutes that will be just the thing. It is much more satisfactory to look at things and know just what you are getting; and then, the variety in the shops suggests things you would not otherwise think of.

These are "lean years" thus far, but you owe something to your own town and your own neighbors who are trying to make the town attractive. Your custom, however small, will help to keep up the standard, and the Colorado Springs standard is remarkable. There is no town of its size in the country, that we know of, which can boast such attractive mercantile establishments, with such a variety of goods, at such reasonable prices. And even if you should have to pay seventy-five cents more for something you could send to New York and get for forty-nine cents (plus postage), don't be so sure about it that you slight your neighbor the merchant who is trying to make a little profit of you. There may be hard times in some quarters, but the show windows of this town don't show it, but it hurts. Go now, take your choice while the stock is complete, pay your money and help some needy one. If we all do our part, however small, it will be one of the best holiday seasons this city has ever known.

It has been an interesting question for some time whether the standard oil company did wisely to ignore all criticisms for so many years. Evidently its policy has changed. Mr. Rockefeller has been quite approachable to interviewers for two or three years past, and now Mr. Archbold comes right out and says, in an article in The Saturday Evening Post, that the policy of silence was a mistake—one of the pretty late for the Standard Oil to catch up of publicity. Miss Tarbell has been after it too many years, and has a big start; but it is the part of good sense to present its side of questions at issue to the public. Recently it issued a little pamphlet in regard to the big fine and Judge Landis' opinion, which was very much in its favor. This article of Mr. Archbold's will at least be widely read, and may lead to some modification in many minds of the opinion of Standard Oil methods. If the directors of this corporation had recognized years ago that it was not altogether a private business, and that the public had a right to know something of what it was doing, it might not have got such a bad name—and maybe it would not have done quite even bad things.

Now that the national banks have published their statements, it is probable that they will loosen up some of the cash they have been keeping in their reserves. In order to demonstrate by the December statement that they are absolutely sound, many of them have been piling up their cash reserves in an unusual way. Some of them show as high a proportion as 50 per cent, whereas the law requires only 25. It is easy to see that if after making this showing they let out even 10 per cent of what they have been holding, the relief will be tremendous. In this town, for instance, it would amount to about a million dollars. There were some of the smaller banks not in doubt fully qualified in holding larger reserve than usual and thus making themselves safe against any possible contingency. But as a rule the strain is over, and they have demonstrated their soundness, a good many of them will set the money to work instead of keeping it in their vaults.

Mr. Steve Adams seems to be one of the most hard wanted men in the United States. The State of Idaho wants him as a witness in the Pettibone case, but the State of Colorado wants him, and has sent after him as the principal in the murder of Arthur Collins. It is a long time since the deed was done, but some people have never forgotten it, and have kept after the murderer ever since. They think they have got him now, and he will have to stand trial, probably in San Miguel County, when they get through with him in Idaho.

THE PRINTERS HOME.

From the Dallas News.

"One of the most striking features of the Printers home in Colorado Springs, as I saw the place on my trip thither, was the provision for the treatment of consumption and the handling of consumptives," City Commissioner H. L. Gillespie said. "As soon as it case is well developed the patient is almost isolated. He is assigned to the tented wards and respirations and his meals are sent him there.

"This does not at all mean that he is neglected, or badly treated, on the other hand, every provision is made for his comfort and treatment. The tents are well ventilated, round tents with good flooring well up from the earth, airy and dry. There is not a water washer or outhouse to be easily seen, but the tent wards are permitting free access to air and sunshine. When the weather is cool there is provision for heating so that comfort may be maintained at any time.

"Meals are all cooked in the main kitchen, and there is an underground dumb waiter arrangement from the housekeeper's tented field. Through this the meals are forwarded and from it they are served. Everything is made separate from the general service so that nothing the sufferers from tuberculosis have handled is taken to form any other details of the place.

"All this is for the open air treatment of consumptives. I am hoping that Dallas will start some such tented plan and will add to her reputation as a health resort.

EARLY SHOPPING ADVANTAGES.

From the Washington Star.

There is advantage for the buyer as well as for the seller in early Christmas shopping. The seller benefits by getting earlier return on his investment. The buyer gets a better selection and better service. The seller is enabled the more confidently to plan his general campaign and the buyer can with more certainty adjust purse and requirements. It is a good plan all around.

Such are the purely selfish considerations which inspire early holiday shopping. Yet in addition are certain factors which should induce all patrons of the stores to be as prompt as possible in making their Christmas holiday purchases. The clerks deserve thought in this connection. No one who has been through the maelstrom of the last few days before Christmas in a big store needs to be told of the trials of the young men and women behind the counters. They are subjected to a physical strain of the severest kind, and to a mental strain in the same degree. They are harried by hustling buyers, eager to make a dollar go the limit. They must be patient and polite, must make no mistakes, must be spry and must do much, often most, of the thinking for the customers. They must decide most points of taste or appropriateness. Often they determine the proper gift for a 12-year-old boy or a 37-year-old bachelor. Their well of knowledge must be bottomless. And with it all they must stand and smile and wait and work with the manner of those who have attained the summit of human poise.

Such a performance is trying. It deserves consideration. The early shopper helps materially to reward it, to make the task easier. And every little helps. Every gift bought today instead of during the last week before Christmas reduces by its small but effective percentage the grand total of buying at the close. Postponement is pardonable only on the plea of no funds. Good managers will avoid this dilemma by appropriating for the Christmas buying out of the November income instead of the December. Nothing is lost in thus anticipating and much is gained.

CHRISTMAS AND GIFT MAKING.

From the New York Times.

We fancy that no right-thinking person would complacently regard the total abolition of the pleasant custom of gift-making at Christmas. Rightly observed, the custom truly typifies the best spirit of the holiday season. The abuse of it has been greater, we believe, in the past than it is now.

The Christmas card, or a better substitute for it, the holiday book, preferably a pretty edition of an acknowledged master work, has come to be an accepted substitute for more expensive and pretentious gifts between friends. The habit of promiscuous gift-making has always pervaded, and anybody who makes gifts he cannot afford to make is foolish the whole year round, and not especially at Christmas tide.

Some good and energetic women in Chicago have formed a society to abolish Christmas gifts. The society is doomed to failure. A society for the cultivation of common sense is always in order, however, and only the exercise of a little common sense is required to eliminate from the custom of Christmas giving all its objectionable features.

COMING WARM.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I've been spending my summers here for several years because I like your climate and your mountains. It is now growing a little cold for an old man, so I must repeat my usual custom of going south for the winter. But I want to say a little to your people before leaving them. I'm impressed deeply with your glorious Colorado. Here are Nature's grand attractions in lavish abundance, priceless for health and all-sufficient for soul development. You are certainly a favored people.

But now I want to tell you that I believe you're going to sleep in regard to the financial possibilities of your state. Do you realize the vastness of my statement? You have thousands upon thousands of acres of fine soil which, if properly handled, would make Colorado the world's attraction. Those of you who visited your State fair this year ought to know there's a future for Colorado in her agricultural pursuits. You bring gold from your mountains; now bring riches from your soil. Much of your literature teems with convincing information as to Colorado's excellent agricultural resources and advantages. Yet, in my travels over the state, I am amazed—as in panoramic view, these vast acres of beautiful level lands, idly stretch themselves in silent accusation of the thrifty westerner's heedlessness and inactivity. Colorado, the golden key to your door of wealth has only been turned. Where is your enthusiasm and progressive zeal? Will you let the easterner be lighted here while you? Surely not! Turn your attention to your possibilities. While you are at it let the health seeker give homes to the industrious classes who would swarm your borders, if one they could find such profitable inducements as exist in the crowded south and east. Multitudes would seek Colorado not for health alone, but to preserve it.

Don't let that miserable question, that you live off the tourist, be repeated. Kill and bury it along with you. "Hundreds" are coming to you if you offer them the inducements. Did you be a man? Then speak everything and care other. As far as help labor is concerned, they're like drops in the Pike. They're afraid of prosperity. There must be devised some method of transforming them into workers. Wight-minded men hands. You need to band together for unity there's strength. Your interests are the same. Be united and headed. Let the commercial Protestant industry and extensive develop your valuable stores of wealth, now lying hidden in the soil of your golden state of sunshine. It will bring you an enviable increase of population and a general prosperity of your state will follow.

W. J. COUDEN.

Colorado Springs, Dec. 3.

PEACE AND THE COMPULSORY DRILL.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Some weeks ago there was quite a discussion in the open Parliament in regard to compulsory drill in our High School, which seemed to be about to the utmost, and because several others entered strong protests, I managed to keep silent, hoping that the calm and sober second thought of our educators would be a sufficient safeguard against anything that in my judgment would be detrimental to the mental and character of our youth, would not be adverse to the introduction of such a system in our schools. But I see in the morning paper that the matter is still pending, and aggressive measures being taken by patriots, who, I fear, is to be introduced into our High School.

It is an easy matter to roll up petitions where perhaps only one side of a question is presented, and where the masses of the people have perhaps given little thought or study to the question. But one such a system is adopted, it should be thoroughly agitated and discussed by parents, teachers, educators and people so that all might understand the dangers, as well as the glitter and false virtues advanced for such a system. All interested in the great world movement of the day have felt a deep pride in the fact that in the last decade of international peace is and through international arbitration and we have felt a small degree of pride in the part the greater of nations have played in its advancement. And we can afford to take no backward step in the world's progress along this line, which we surely would do should we introduce compulsory military drill in our public schools. It would serve as a precedent for the establishing of others, and so the evil would grow.

All was not accomplished in the last great "society of nations" that was hoped for, but it seemed necessary to give bigger time for the leaven of peace to work among the nations interested in military power. The study of our nation's hope rises over the school house, where the youth of today are in training for the citizenship of tomorrow.

That training demands not only the "book learning" of the olden time, but the development of the highest and best faculties, preparation for the great school of life, with the moral side fully up to the standard of the mental training.

Military training means training for military life, for skill in the art of war; it means a stultifying of the finer faculties, which should enable a keen discernment of right and wrong, with the moral courage to defend the right at all hazards.

Military training means growth of military power. That law is arrogant, arbitrary and oppressive; it substitutes might for right; makes the old law of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" paramount to the new "law of love" Christ came to exalt.

With the hope that this important motto be given due thought and consideration by our educators and all concerned, and that wisdom guide all decisions, I am truly yours.

Today's Horoscope

Friday, December 6, 1907.

No sanguinary star is Mars today,
But health and healing lie beneath his ray.

The moon is in perigee and farthest south of the equator. The 340th day of the year. The sun is in trine with Jupiter. Venus and Mars are in benefic aspect with the moon.

Good healing today from all who minister to physical ills—physicians, surgeons, oculists and dentists. Alleviation is promised.

An opportune twenty-four hours for dealing with engineers and machinists. A good day for electrical installation of all kinds. There is profit this day in dealings with those who wear uniforms.

One of the best days of the year for women. Lucky for giving entertainments or making up lists of guests. Most auspicious for making, altering, designing or fitting gowns.

The woman whose birthdate this is will hear joyful news during the twelvemonth. She is, however, threatened with illness which she can prevent by being heedful against overindulgence in social life.

The man whose birthdate this is will benefit through powerful friends.

The girl born this day will marry well and be most happy. She must be guarded against a fall in infancy.

The boy born today will be rapidly promoted in employment.

The Costs of Insects

Their Ravages Annually Involve Loss Greater Than the Expense of Maintaining the National Government.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

EIGHT hundred million dollars a year is a stupendously steep price to pay for the privilege which insection insists upon inconsiderately devouring at the expense of the people of the United States. Every year the myriad of insects which live their lovely, grubbing life scarcely noticed set away with a greater sum than it takes to run the entire civil establishment of this country. It costs about $510,000,000 a year to pay for all the elaborate governmental functions of Uncle Sam. The values destroyed by the insects which prey upon every living thing and many inanimate things would, if they could be saved and put into money, pay not only the cost of our Government, but that of several European countries as well.

Our navy department is reckoned as a rather expensive affair, with its budget of $110,000,000 a year, but all the money represented in its armament, equipment and payroll is just about the sum which merely one breed of insects destroys every year. There's the forbidable battleship Connecticut, which has cost $4,212,000 and which has taken years to build. A mighty expensive machine of destruction, you say. The property destroyed by one particular insect annually is worth a sum that would almost build three Connecticuts. And what another tribe of insects, the ravagers of forests and wood products, reduce to nothingness every 12 months would build 50,000 comfortable homes on the outskirts of great cities. These comparisons give an idea of what an extraordinary expensive man this infinitesimal world of insects feeds upon. Fire sounds much more terrifying, and also floods and cyclones, but leaving aside the loss of human life, all these three agencies of destruction combined do not work half have that the depredations of insects do. And this onslaught of devastation never stops.

Forest Destroying Insects.

Let us consider first the fierce army of tiny fiends which take a wild delight in ravaging our forests. It would seem to be a monumental task for Government employees to fell all these superbeasts. Man can't do it without powerful utensils. With nature's hands he would be helpless. The forest destroying insects do it with a force so small that a microscope is necessary for a good look. It is the ants and only those that they know how to do, nature never taught them anything different. They therefore proceed, with an enthusiasm and industry which never lags. And they do their work so well that the Black Hills forest reserve in South Dakota the pine bark beetles, according to recent estimates by the bureau of entomology, have already killed more than a billion feet of pine timber originally as fine timber as could be found anywhere, but now worthless. An expensive feast, this. But this is merely one phase of the destructive activity of this beetle, it and the population help itself with the population of six kind gets to conditions in one place it moves on and looks for further opportunities, just as human beings do. So it has been migrating to the choice timber regions of Colorado, New Mexico and other states, where it has been repeating the Black Hills performance.

The Mountain Beetle.

Now, the pine bark beetle has various relatives, close and distant. One that has near this of persuasiveness is the mountain pine beetle. The pine bark beetle can get along very well without mountain air, but the mountain beetle refuses anything short of a high altitude. Here it abounds in destructive numbers, especially in the western and as fast as it travels through those salubrious regions down go vast quantities of pine. With inimable patience it burrows under the bark, hews out tunnels, chews up the substance and then gaily proceeds elsewhere to new lands, leaving millions of dollars' worth of timber in a decaying and useless condition.

But the worst of this insect family is the spruce-destroying beetle, a cute of a destroyer, from three-sixteenths to five-sixteenths of an inch long. This devastator has left a costly trail from New York to New Brunswick, and is still at it. With imperturbable energy it continues to destroy millions upon millions of feet of spruce. Its boring vigor and engineering ingenuity are marvelous. It cuts galleries through the trees with as much mathematical precision as if it were a graduate of a technical institute. Although there are thousands of these galleries in a single tree, no one gallery encroaches upon the rest; there's no confusion of property rights and no litigation in this bug-land. Family privacy is strictly respected.

The Mission of Woodpeckers.

What the spruce-destroying beetle loves to do, more than anything else is to make a rush for a vigorous tree in perfect health. There is the food. By the time it has got through with it attack the tree is in the throes of death. You can walk through the spruce forest of Maine, for instance, and everything looks tranquil and picturesque. But there's murder going on, a vast slaughter, quite unseen, and it's a rapid process. Dr. A. D. Hopkins of the bureau of entomology, who has studied the peculiar life and habitat of this as well as other bugs, makes this estimate: That an average of three pairs of these beetles boring a square foot of bark on 10 to 15 feet of an average tree are sufficient to kill it. These bugs breed with a promiscuousness that would bankrupt man. Six thousand of them breeding in one tree furnish an army enough to smite from 20 to 25 more trees. You who object to this slaughter don't ever shoot woodpeckers. If it were not for the woodpeckers, which bore out these borers and eat them, the spruce-destroying beetle would be twice as numerous.

Less Familiar Bugs.

Each tribe to its taste. There are about 20 other varieties of bugs which rip up forests. The cedar heart-and borer disdains everything else but the western cedars, which it kills off in vast quantities. The white pine weevil has one and only one taste, but in the exercise of that it destroys immense areas of white pine every year. Then there are the bugs which so mainly ravage living trees, but which feed on the logs and manufactured articles. The ambrosia beetle has a most fastidious [illegible] powder-post beetles cause enormous losses by their ferocious gnawing in oak and hickory spokes, handles, boxes, furniture and other made-up goods.

The annual bill for the work of these various bug fiends amounts, it is estimated, to perhaps $200,000,000.

That curious insect, the bollworm, deserves a respectful scrutiny. The baneful work of this marauder costs this country a loss of more than $20,000,000 a year, according to bulletin No. 50 of the bureau of entomology. This is certainly a tremendous haul for one miserable little insect, which, however, isn't as miserable as it looks, for it feeds upon the most succulent corn and cotton fiber and seed, and enjoys its brief life exceedingly well. It prefers corn, either of the sweet or field variety, of which it destroys about $20,000,000 worth a year. As a sort of change-off it gluts on cotton fiber and seed $9,000,000 worth a year. These are its principal viands, but its taste is discursive.

THE OLD CATTLE FORD

The wide sands glow, as in days of yore
When the trail and its men were young,
And the cowboys drove their thousands over
From the bank where the dust cloud hung.

Again, yet I see the heads across,
And the rolling of lengthened rows,
As the gaunt creatures swim across
To you point where the dead tree lies.

Above the cheers of the cowboys sound
Over the clashing of horn on horn;
What if the shifting sands should
Your to their lonely death to scorn!

But the picture fades, as the train speeds on
From the bridge to the distant plain,
Like the years, the dreams—where are gone
And has left but a dust of pain.

SOME FACTS ABOUT INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

At a recent meeting of the New York state conference of charities and corrections some facts about industrial accidents were brought out which are worth repeating.

One of the speakers showed that over half of the accidents to working men in New York state were to men under 21 years of age. That means that the best part of the industrial life of these men had not come.

Also half the accidents befell men in the unskilled trades, including drivers and longshoremen. When such men are crippled they are less able than others to turn disadvantage to other employments.

Of the injured men, 25 per cent were earning between $5 and $10 a week, over 50 per cent were earning less than $15 a week. As $16 a week is considered the minimum amount necessary to maintain a normal family life, it is evident that such men could have had no accumulated resources to enable them against the possibility of injury, and even though they were back clers and prudent in their habits, they could have had little aid from their own resources.

Men of this class who are disabled inevitably become objects of public philanthropy. Where they have families, which protracted suffering is certain to fall on their wives and children. In Manhattan and Brooklyn the cases of 758 men with families, who had been victims of industrial accidents, were investigated, and 57 per cent were found to be permanently disabled. In only 20 per cent of these cases had any form of gift or settlement been made for the injured person by his employers.

Conditions like this mean an enormous amount of suffering, for which the victims are in no way personally responsible. They mean a heavy burden on philanthropy, which, perhaps, never can be adequately met with full justice. They are a most eloquent argument for state initiative in providing compulsory industrial insurance for all workers.

THE WIFE'S TEARS.

Harper's Bazar, which is settling all feminine problems these days, has turned its brilliant editorial attention to the subject of marital disagreements.

This month's issue (December) gives the husband's opinion of his wife's tears. An opinion in which thousands of suffering husbands will concur.

One night he woke up and found her crying; nor will he, as long as he lives, forget the dismay this caused him. The firm foundation of his little world shook under his feet. He so wanted her to be happy; as far as he knew he did everything to make her happy, and here she was awake in the night, crying. Nor would she tell him why. No woman fully understands the awful shipwrecked feeling it gives a man to see his wife cry. He never gets used to it; he may get accustomed to anything else, but never to that. A man whose wife cries often may learn to put a stoical face on it—grit his teeth, and bear it without winching outwardly, just as he may learn to bear some ever-recurring pain; deep in upon it, however, his heart is water within him. There is nothing that so sapps one's manhood as tears. Men have different ways of showing this. Some it makes brutal from sheer despair; others are dumb in the face of tears, unable to utter a cheering or sympathetic word; while, again, others take refuge in flight, since they can't bear the unnerving spectacle. However, a man takes it, be sure he suffers all his worst enemy could wish him to. In cases where marriage is a warfare the woman has here a weapon at her command that can always rout her opponent and give her the final victory.

POMP OF ENGLISH MAYORS.

From the London Standard.

Chichester wins its chief magistrate with a gold-mounted malacca cane of office, while the mayor of Guildford carries the stick presented to the borough by Queen Elizabeth. At York both the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress are equipped with the silver-mounted oak staves which have served their authority for centuries. Among the official retainers of the mayor of Ripon is the municipal hornblower, who every night at 9 o'clock winds three blasts upon this good musical instrument before the mayor's residence, and again in the market place.

J. A. Truitt Fears Spouse Will Kill Him and Applies to Court for a Divorce.

Alleging that his wife, Jennie C. Truitt, has been unfaithful, has deserted his home and threatened his life, J. A. Truitt is applying to the county court for a decree of divorce. The couple were married at Tower Hill, Ill., in 1888, and have four children ranging in age from 12 to 18 years. Mrs. Truitt, according to the complaint, has been in Illinois for more than one year and has threatened to come to this city with her brother and take the life of her husband. The latter alleges to be in constant fear of his life and asks for legal separation from his wife and the custody of his two children.

Truitt is a driver for the Colorado Springs Transfer and Livery company.

LENNOX GETS BIG JUDGMENT

Property of French Gulch Mining Company Passes Into Hands of Springs Man.

The property of the French Gulch Mining company, located in Summit county, has become the property of William Lennox of this city as the result of a judgment by default in the sum of $72,339.82, with interest, totaling over $100,000, issued to Mr. Lennox in the district court yesterday. The suit was brought by Mr. Lennox to compel payment on bonds taken by him from the company on November 1, 1902, the interest on which has been accruing ever since. The intervenor, Lemuel Kingsbury of New York, failed to make his appearance yesterday, and Judge J. W. Sheafor issued the judgment for the plaintiff.

The directors of the company at the time the bonds were taken by Mr. Lennox were G. B. Hanford, W. B. Tobbits, Martin Nathan, H. S. Stallknecht and B. J. Hill, all of New York city. Lemuel Kingsbury is a large stockholder in the company and some time ago filed a petition of intervention asking that the suit be dismissed; but yesterday failed to appear in behalf of his petition. The property includes several valuable claims and much machinery.

TO GIVE CONCERT AT DEPOT

Three Hundred Canaries Will Sing While Getting Their Daily Bath on Long Trip.

Three hundred feathered choristers traveling all the way from New York to San Francisco in a special Wells-Fargo express car will give an impromptu concert at the Santa Fe depot this morning, beginning promptly at 6:25 o'clock. The flow of song will be continuous from the hour of arrival until the happy little canaries are sent west at noon over the Colorado Midland.

Upon their arrival here this morning the birds will be given a bath and their cages will be cleaned by an attendant who accompanies them. The food supply will be replenished and details arranged for the last stage of the journey.

The birds are consigned from an importing firm in New York to dealers on the coast.

The Best Is Always Cheapest.

In buying medicine, a few pence from each bottle is no inducement to the buyer. He wants that which is most effective, as it is cheapest in the end. This is why Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is so popular here. It is guaranteed to do all that is claimed for it and its cures of coughs, colds and croup are always satisfactory. For sale by all druggists.

A "crime social" will be given tonight by Ladies of G. A. R. in G. A. R. hall. Come and have your fortune told. Public invited.

WRIT OF MANDAMUS DENIED.

Proprietor of Club Livery Stable Loses Another Point.

Another step was taken in the fight between the city administration and A. D. DeMasters, proprietor of the Club Livery stable on North Tejon street, when Judge Robert Kerr in the county court denied the application for the writ of mandamus made by Mr. DeMasters last week to compel the city to issue to him a license. A former suit instituted by DeMasters to test the validity of the ordinance under which he has been refused a license, still remains to be argued before the court, and the outcome of this case, Mr. DeMasters stated last night, will determine his future course of legal procedure. The plaintiff is trying to have the ordinance declared invalid, and if this decision is against him he will appeal both suits.

HARTGRAVE BOUND OVER.

To Be Tried on Forgery Charge in District Court.

Apparently deeply repentant, F. A. Hartgrave yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery when brought before Justice W. N. Ruby, and was bound over to the district court for trial. His crime is a felony and punishable by a term in the penitentiary.

Hartgrave is the young man who was arrested by Detective Patton Tuesday night for having issued three forged checks which he passed on prominent men of this city. He has admitted to a previous bad record and to having served a term in the penitentiary for forgery, but claimed that he had repented and been converted. In court Saturday he maintained his religious demeanor and expressed his determination to live down his past after he had served the penitentiary sentence, which he said he expected.

MRS. JULIA H. FISHER DIES

Prominent Pioneer Woman Passes Away After Lingering Illness. Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Julia Huntington Fisher, aged 58 years, a pioneer of Colorado Springs and widow of Homer Dewey Fisher, who was one of the organizers and projectors of the Colorado Midland railroad and president of the construction company that built the line from Colorado City to Newcastle, died yesterday morning at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William H. Coffin, 620 East Columbia street, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Fisher came to Colorado Springs in 1878 with her husband, who died here in 1890. She leaves three daughters and a son, Mrs. W. H. Coffin and Miss Helen H. Fisher of 626 East Columbia street, Mrs. F. O. Fitts of Miami, Fla., and Franklin C. Fisher, who is engaged in the lumber business with headquarters at Jasper.

The funeral will be held from St. Stephen's church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Evergreen cemetery will be private.

VISIT SITE OF WOODMAN HOME

Head Officers Highly Pleased With Tract and Will Close Deal at Once.

With the exception of some legal formalities, all the arrangements for the transfer of the Ancher ranch to the Woodmen's Home Building association as a site for the Woodmen sanitarium, have been completed, and as soon as the papers are prepared a check for $15,000 will be given by Treasurer E. E. Murphy and William Lennox of this city, trustees for the Ancher estate. At a conference yesterday between Head Consul A. R. Talbot and Mr. Lennox the details of the deal were satisfactorily arranged and the bargain was legally closed by the payment of a small sum as earnest money by Mr. Talbot.

A visit to the site was made yesterday morning by Mr. Talbot, State Deputy F. B. Easterly, State Consul Meyfield, District Deputy J. D. Knox, J. F. Sanford and H. C. Henderson, the latter two of the local Woodmen camp. The head consul was even better pleased with the estate than on his former visit and in his two hours' stay discovered many new features of beauty in the scenery.

Mr. Talbot went to Pueblo last night to attend a meeting of the Woodmen camp in that city at which a large class of applicants was initiated.

BOURK'S CREDITORS FIGHTING

Federal Court Issues Stay of Execution Preventing Sheriff's Sale of Stock.

While Dr. G. A. Bourk, former proprietor of the Red Cross Drug store is being sought by officers of the law who want him on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses, his creditors are fighting in the court to see who will get the lion's share of the assets. By rushing a petition for a stay of execution, through the federal court in Denver yesterday, the Denver creditors of the company succeeded in stopping the sale by Sheriff O. P. Grimes in this city, of the stock in the Red Cross store, which was to have been auctioned off at 2 o'clock. The petition for bankruptcy proceedings was granted by Judge R. E. Lewis in the United States district court and the likelihood now is that an inventory of the assets will be made and the various creditors will be apportioned their respective shares in the usual way by an assignee.

According to estimates made by the sheriff's officers, the creditors are liable to get a very small percentage of their claims as the stock in the store is very meager. Dr. Bourk is aid to have shipped large quantities of it out of the city before he was forced to quit the business. The stock is valued at about $500 and the claims of creditors aggregate several times that amount. On learning that a warrant was out for his arrest, Dr. Bourk left and his whereabouts at the present time is not [illegible]

NEW OFFICERS—William A. Campbell was last night elected eminent commander of Pikes Peak commandery No. 4, Knights Templars, at the election of officers for the ensuing year held at the stated conclave in the Masonic lodge rooms. Andrew J. Lawton was elected generalissimo; Robert H. Ashworth, captain general; Joseph G. Dern, senior warden; William Hijis, junior warden; James P. Barnes, treasurer, and Aury B. Noxon, recorder. The two officers last named were re-elected.

TUFT ONCE ASSAULTED

Former Springs Man Lies in Critical Condition at His Home in Denver.

Terribly injured about the head and face as the result of being sandbagged on the streets of Denver by a supposed enemy, former Humboldt agent Oliver E. Tuft of this city, at one time agent in Colorado Springs, is lying at his home in a critical condition. The assault was committed Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock on the street opposite the Shirley, located near the corner of Seventeenth and Lincoln avenues, as Mr. Tuft was on his way to his home, near by. The victim of the assault was found shortly afterwards by a passerby in an unconscious condition.

Mr. Tuft's watch and $[illegible] in money were missing from his clothes, but his own theory and the opinion of the police is that revenge and not robbery, was the prime motive of the thug. Tuft was struck from behind and knocked senseless so suddenly that he had no opportunity to see his assailant, and no trace of the perpetrator has been found. After knocking his victim senseless with a sandbag, the thug proceeded to beat him about the head and face, which were cut and bruised beyond recognition.

Tuft was humane agent in Denver for several years, and in the course of his duty, was compelled to shoot and kill an Italian in self defense, after being wounded in the arm by the man. His duties were such as to win him the enmity of many tough characters, and the supposition of the police is that the attack was committed in revenge for some fancied wrong.

While humane officer in Colorado Springs for about two years, Mr. Tuft was regarded as a very conscientious and efficient officer and made many friends. He was replaced here about four years ago and went to Denver to live.

ATTEMPTED ASSAULT CHARGED

Julius Berg Arrested for Trying to Forcibly Accost Two Colorado City Girls.

Julius Berg was last night lodged in the county jail to await trial on the charge of attempted assault. He was arrested and brought to this city by Chief of Police Gideon of Colorado City.

The man attempted to assault the Misses Mamie and Agnes Kueller of Colorado City on their way home from work about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. He first attempted to seize Miss Mamie, but she eluded him and ran away. He then turned upon her sister, but the latter screamed and succeeded in attracting the attention of Patrolman Roach. The man was frightened off, but was arrested yesterday and identified by Miss Kueller.

Miss Agnes Kueller is an employe of the Elite laundry in this city, and her sister is a telephone operator for the Home Telephone company in Colorado City. They live at 320 Monroe street, in Colorado City, and were within a short distance of their home when the attack occurred.

No reason is given for his resignation.

BLOOD POISONING—Just as he was about to leave St. Francis hospital after a confinement of several months from injuries received while working with a construction crew on the Rock Island near Colorado Springs, Henry Wagner of Beatrice, Neb., cut his hand with a piece of rusty wire and blood poisoning developed. For a time it was feared that amputation would be necessary to save his arm, but he is now recovering.

MARRIAGE—Roscoe L. Marlow and Miss Beulah Converse Rowley were married in Denver Wednesday and will spend a few days in this city before returning to Denver, where they will make their home. Mr. Marlow is well known in Colorado Springs, being the youngest son of Dr. W. D. Marlow. A reception will be given in honor of the young couple at the home of the groom's parents, 607 South Nevada avenue, this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

ELECT OFFICERS—The following officers have been elected by Myrtle lodge No. 24, Knights of Pythias: Chancellor commander, R. B. Van Winkle; vice chancellor, W. H. Martin; prelate, J. M. Stanley; master at arms, L. H. Smith; master of exchequer, L. M. Counts; master of finance, W. A. Davis; keeper of records and seals, I. S. Cohen; master of work, Dr. J. N. Ellison; trustee, Charles Taylor; inner guard, C. E. Beals; outer guard, Fred S. Russell.

BUDAPEST.

From the New York Press.

"Americans know absolutely nothing of one of the greatest cities of all Europe," said a foreign traveler [illegible] for a Budapest. "Do you believe it has one-quarter of a million inhabitants, and is foremost in many of the arts and sciences? Take my word for it. Which has a university with nearly 3,000 students and 230 professors? The trolley was developed in Budapest. Most of the population is Magyar. Budapest has the finest Jewish synagogue in the empire. The Danube, dividing Buda from Pest, is a beautiful stream, spanned by magnificent bridges. The largest electrical works in all Europe are in this wonderful city."

LIVE OSTRICH TO BE TREPANNED

From the New York American.

The skull of a live ostrich will be trepanned for the first time in history at the Bronx zoo tomorrow. The ostrich is one of the flock that got into a vicious tree-for-all fight in their house last week, and was whipped by an ostrich that was handicapped with its feet.

Since then the wounded bird has been staggering around the inclosure as though it had been drinking altogether too much, and Dr. Blair, of the Zoo staff, discovered that the trouble was a clot on the brain. There is much hope that the trepanning will save the life of the ostrich.

PLANTATION SONGS AT BLIND BOONE CONCERT.

Not the least among the enjoyable features of the Blind Boone concert at the First Methodist church tonight will be the singing of plantation and other melodies by Miss Emma Smith. With her charming voice and winning manner she is always a favorite with her audience. This country doesn't often visit the west, and this is a rare opportunity to hear them under favorable conditions. Mr. Boone is a wonderful example of what our modern methods of instruction can accomplish. A number of the bands of music from the Deaf and Blind Institute are expected to attend.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL TRAIN.

A London paper says of the royal train built for King Edward by the London & Northwestern Railway company: While some continental sovereigns have had railway coaches built for them at the expense of the state or of their own privy purse, the royal trains provided by the London & Northwestern and two or three of the other English companies have been constructed at the companies' own expense. They then remain the railway's property, the members of the royal family paying their fares like ordinary passengers, with merely the usual charge for a special train. The most elaborate precautions are taken to insure the safety of the king's train, a pilot engine running 15 minutes in advance throughout the entire journey. The train itself contains a saloon designed for his majesty, with a smoking room, a day saloon, a bedroom and dressing room, all equipped with handsome furniture.

What the Press Agents Say

"THE MAYOR OF TOKIO."

[illegible] "The Mayor of Tokio" is one of those clean, musical comedies that theatregoers will welcome as it is entirely different from musical comedies that have been here this season. It does not depend wholly or in part on two characters for its success as the company consists about 30 principals and carries a chorus of [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible]. The costumes and scenery are among the handsomest seen on the stage today. Mr. John L. Kearney heads the list as comedian and his quaint humor and droll antics stamp him as one of the best musical comedy comedians of today. Mr. Kearney is a great favorite here and his coming will insure a full house.

[illegible] the numbers that have become popular and which may be heard whenever an orchestra plays popular music are: "My Dreamy Night," "Wind Sea of Love," "Tokio," "When the Green Breezes Blow," "I Like You" and "Poolitha." The company is a very large and well balanced organization numbering 50 people with a chorus christened by a Boston critic "The Blue Ribbon Chorus of America." New scenery and costumes have been provided and the production is said to be one of the most pretentious of the year. Mr. John L. Kearney is starring throughout and is pleasing his many admirers, and creates no end of laughter with his really clever impersonation of Marcus Orlando Miller.

[illegible] Shet to hear that "Checkers" is to pay another visit to this city. Reserved seats will be on sale this morning. It is contracted to be presented at the Opera House next Monday evening. Not remembering the tumultuous audience which packed the theater on the occasion of the play's last visit and the large number of inquiries at the box office since then, as to when "Checkers" is coming back, its management here would safely be justified in the profit of both local and visiting managing and the detention of a generous playgoing public not only will-ing but eager to see it again when something good comes along.

It is the promise of the company's management which is the same that has guided "Checkers" through its four full years of life so satisfactorily to the public, that the organization this season contains many of the [illegible] who will be seen again in their [illegible] in, and the new actors [illegible] are the special [illegible] [illegible] Kirkham [illegible].

TICKET SCALPERS REVERSED.

Will Be Forced Out of Business by Decision.

Local cut-rate ticket brokers, in common with all others throughout the country, will be forced out of business by a decision rendered a few days ago by the United States supreme court. This decision of the court was in a test case appealed by the American Ticket Brokers association, and was decided against the brokers. By the ruling that the selling of nontransferable tickets is illegal, the supreme court practically sounds the death knell for the scalpers.

Local brokers state that they will continue doing business until forced to quit, and that they will await instructions from the American Ticket Brokers association. When [illegible] their future course. They admit that the decision is against them, and say that, although there could be no legal objection to their continuing the selling of local transferable tickets, there is not enough of this business to warrant their continuance in business if debarred from dealing in the nontransferable tickets.

"This fight has been a long one, and has cost the brokers a large amount of money," said one of the local brokers yesterday. "We had hoped to win in the highest court, and now that the case has gone against us, we are unsettled as regards our future status. Before doing anything definite we shall wait until officially notified and until advised by the American Ticket Brokers association."

While Judge Dixon was on the bench in Colorado he issued a temporary injunction against the scalpers, but since his retirement, last January the ticket brokers have been working with a free hand in Colorado. There are only three ticket brokers now operating in this city.

WHO WILL SUCCEED MRS. ASTOR?

The War for Social Leadership in the "400" Is Now On.

Mrs. William Astor, queen of American society for a third of a century, has laid down her scepter and the elite are eagerly scanning the social realm for a worthy head upon which to bestow the crown.

Social sovereignty is neither hereditary nor elective. No claimant can come forward and demand the succession by right of birth; nor can any election be held. If Ward McAllister were alive he might exercise his once famous censorship and become a queen maker, but under present conditions the new doyenne must prove her worth and establish her supremacy in the impending social war, says the December Broadway Magazine in an interesting article.

Mrs. Astor's regime extends back to the year 1874, and during all that time she ruled without a rival. Her strength lay in her elegance, dignity and great reserve. She was born a Schermerhorn and married an Astor, a trader in furs. She made no fight for social sovereignty, as would-be leaders must do now. She was a woman of superb consistency in her social life, and her stately ball on the second Monday in January became as much of a social law as the English drawing room. Her guests were always people of distinct culture and position, but in her visiting list she became far more tolerant in the latter part of her reign than during the last 20 years of the nineteenth century. She never sought novelty, and wouldn't think of entertaining her guests with freak parties, but she was never known to protest against those who did. She was traveled, well-read and liberal-minded. She never sought to govern the mental attitude of everyone around her. She was always a great lady and no social station or situation could cause her to lose her stately poise.

Those who earnestly desire the establishment of a dignified and elegant social supremacy would like to have either of two women become the leader—Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, senior, or Mrs. Ogden Mills. Both have millions, both have mingled from childhood with the most distinguished people on both continents; both are of high birth and are fitted to lead and command. Either of them could carry off Mrs. Astor's place.

FIVE VAGRANTS ARRESTED.

Charged with Stealing $22.50 From Boarding House.

On the charge of having stolen $22.50 from Mrs. P. Brennan, keeper of the Rock Island boarding house for the section men at Elsmere, seven miles east of this city, five men, classed as "vagrants," were arrested yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriffs Allward and Schofield and lodged in the county jail. The names of the men are C. O. Milhoan, J. F. Suckman, E. H. Henderson, J. F. Fleming and C. H. Doolittle. The arrests were made near Peyton, where the men were camping, after having fled from the boarding house. Mr. and Mrs. Brennan came to the city yesterday to identify the men who were brought before Justice O. R. Dunnington and had their trial set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The men are laborers formerly employed by the Rock Island and were loafing about the boarding house at Elsmere on Tuesday when Mrs. Brennan made ready to come to Colorado Springs to do some shopping. She left her pocketbook, containing $22.50, on the table. When she returned both the money and the men were gone and she drove at once to this city and notified the sheriff's office. Allward and Schofield followed the trail of the men across the prairie toward Peyton, and early yesterday morning came upon them at their camp, where they were cooking breakfast. From the number of bottles lying about, the officers judged that the party had spent the night in carousal, and they will probably be asked to explain where they obtained the money that was spent for the liquor.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

The money demand suit of J. M. Hawkins vs. the Princess Alice Gold Mining company, was yesterday set for hearing in the district court for Monday, December 9.

In the court of Justice Dunnington yesterday, D. Viraldo, an Austrian, was found guilty of assaulting Thomas Stanforth, a 16-year-old boy, and fined $1 and costs. The case resulted from a quarrel between the man and the boy over the latter's attempts at shooting sparrows near the Viraldo home.

E. P. HUFFERD HAS RETURNED

Succeeded by John De Fries on Goldfield Exchange.

Trouble between the mine operators and the Western Federation of Miners is brewing in Goldfield, according to E. P. Hufferd, formerly caller on the Colorado Springs Mining Stock exchange, who has just returned from a year's stay in that camp during which time he acted as caller on the Goldfield Mining exchange.

"Another strike has just been called, and the biggest mines and mills in the district are practically shut down," he said yesterday. "The Western Federation is trying to prevent the employment of nonunion men."

Mr. Hufferd will remain in Colorado Springs. He was succeeded on the Goldfield exchange by another Colorado Springs man, John De Fries.

THE LOST MAIL.

From the New York Sun.

There are many ways for mail matter to be misplaced, but a new one was discovered in the old insurance building on Montague street, Brooklyn. A long board was nailed to the wall in the lower hall a score of years ago and to it the mail boxes of the tenants were attached. When the building was renovated a few days ago the board was torn from the wall and a large quantity of mail matter in the attic fell down. Several letters were postmarked as far back as 1888, and one containing a substantial check, bore the date 1892. Another containing a check had been behind the board since 1902. In all about 30 pieces of mail were found. The board had become loosened by time and a large crack opened between it and the wall. The postman in his hurry had occasionally slipped a letter behind it instead of in the mail box.

The World of Books

"HESTER OF THE HILLS."

"Hester of the Hills" by Grover Clay. L. C. Page & Co., publishers, Boston. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

The name of Grover Clay is a new one. It may be assumed, therefore, that this is a first book by a new writer, and, if it be, it certainly is a book of promise. The wild flower of the backwoods discovered by the hyperciviliized male of cities bustling into new haunts when tended, properly, is no new figure in American fiction, but Mr. Clay gives his Hester individuality and fresh charm without violating probabilities. There is a touch of realism in his romance, the daughter of ignorant backwoods, grown up in ignorance, is not transformed in a day into an ornament of drawing-rooms, nor is her mind able to break at once the shackles of a narrow life. It is the woman within her, her deeper womanhood, that responds to the call of love, the rest, of minor importance, is to follow in the proper time. The hero's belief in eugenics introduces a strange element into the story. The author's pictures of the manners and habits of the squatters in the Ozarks are excellent. This first book deserves notice, for it has many merits.

"THE POWERS AND MAXINE."

"The Powers and Maxine" by C. N. and A. M. Williamson. The Empire Book Company, publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price 65 cents.

This book deals with the most thrilling sides of life in London and in Paris. In the latter city, especially, the reader is introduced to a phase of life hitherto unsuspected by most Americans. It is a world in a new world, peopled by strange folk and vibrant with a mysterious fascination that is all its own.

The heroine of the novel is a girl as bewitchingly charming and unusual as the story itself. She is a French actress and a secret service agent, playing one trade against the other, and carrying on a daring series of love affairs and political intrigues at the same time.

All this produces a set of complications so extraordinary, so daring, so full of stirring episode and action that the reader is held in a hypnotic spell from beginning to end. It is a story that simply will not be laid down unfinished.

It is the first of the new series of $1.50 novels which will be published by the Empire Book company of New York at half the usual price.

THE LITTLE GREY HOUSE.

"The Daughters of the Little Grey House," by Marion Ames Taggart. The McClure Company, publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

An American story which is redolent of the wholesome atmosphere that permeates the history of Nina Wentworth is Marion Ames Taggart's "Daughters of the Little Grey House." This is the sequel to an earlier book, in which was painted an admirable picture of family affection and youthful courage and helpfulness. Roberta Grey, whose heart is as warm as her brains are sound, is a fine young heroine of the best type of girlhood. Her sympathies do not melt into sentimentality nor does her brave outlook on life include blatant aggression. The readers of "The Little Grey House" have no doubt longed to know what became of Roberta and her sisters. They will find no disappointment and much entertainment in this new volume.

"HELEN'S BABIES."

"Helen's Babies," by John Habberton. New Edition. Moffat, Yard & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

More than a million copies have been circulated in America, alone, of this celebrated story, which is now, for the first time, offered to the public in a form befitting its merit and its enormous popularity.

When it was originally published neither author nor publisher realized its possibilities. The book was put out as a trifle, without proper protection, with the result that others, even Mr. Habberton himself, reaped the financial rewards of the phenomenal sales that shortly developed.

"Helen's Babies" is today a widely sold book, both in the cheap and beautiful forms in which it is obtainable at the cheaper book stands. The time was ripe for an adequate edition of the book, and this the publishers now offer. It is better than in addition to the natural appeal to expected from the youngsters, it should be welcomed by laughless old folks as the book of youth.

Illustrated in colors by E. [illegible] and in black and white by [illegible] Dwiggins.

ANOTHER LANG FAIRY BOOK.

"The Olive Fairy Book," edited by Andrew Lang. Longmans, Green & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.75 net.

Among all the fairy books of the holiday season there is none so beautiful in appearance as this, the latest edited by Mr. Lang, and none contains more interesting stories. It is safe to say that no child who has read one of the earlier ones falls thereafter to put a Lang fairy book on the Christmas list, for there is something about these volumes that appeals more strongly than almost any other to young folks, who believe fairy stories are the finest kind of literature. Mr. Lang has almost inexhaustible resources for supplying little folks, and now he reveals his store, which is a large and rare collection of stories written two centuries or more ago. One wonders what he will do when all the colors have been used in his titles, for he already has used a dozen of them.

To say that the new volume is quite equal to its predecessors is the highest praise. It contains two dozen or more stories from many lands, Turkey, Denmark, France, India and others, all told in the style that children enjoy, for Mr. Lang knows what they like and he gives it to them in these charming volumes. He offers them ghost stories, and defends fairy tales, which he declares are quite as true as the "best history story." Only good can come from the reading of these stories, he believes, because "there is always a lesson in them and no child can be induced to engage in any mischief if these books are available." "The Olive Fairy Book" contains the usual numerous and beautiful illustrations by H. J. Ford.

"LAID UP IN LAVENDER."

"Laid Up in Lavender," by Stanley J. Weyman. Longmans, Green & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

If the twelve stories in this volume are only newly taken down from a museum shelf as the title suggests, and as internal evidence hints they are, they are fresh and neatly pointed. Each one has its point of novel invention and its deft wording. Some of them familiarly suggest the famous teller of tales of intricate adventure; others turn for interest on the mysteries inherent in old English abodes; others yet are of humorous episodes with amusing and kindly portraits of the English types that Trollope and Punch have brought home to the American reader, but in situations that it has been left to a Weyman to devise. Each has its motive and its surprise, prepared with nicety and approached with a craftsman's pen.

"HOLLAND SKETCHES."

"Holland Sketches," by Edward Penfield. Charles Scribner's Sons, publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $2.00 net.

The picturesque quality of Holland which so many men have tried to interpret has rarely been more charmingly presented than in the new book by Edward Penfield called "Holland Sketches," which has just been published. The text of the book is a pleasant account of wanderings and sojournings in different parts of Holland, including a voyage on a Boeier, a visit to Marken and some days in Amsterdam, and these sympathetic and extremely readable descriptions are illustrated by a series of thirty-two water color sketches of unique charm and beauty. There are sketches of streets and canals of towns and country of boats and dog carts of people and cows. And they are reproduced in full colors giving a splendid example of the perfection which the process of color reproduction has now reached. The illustrations in this volume were printed separately from the book and tipped in by hand, a method which adds largely to the distinction of the book. "Holland Sketches" is a most attractive record of the peculiar charms of Holland, of fort cleanness and color and picturesqueness which distinguish it. The volume is the kind of record that is a constant reminder of the real quality the world get into its guidebook, the sort of reminder that those who have been there like to have by them.

"RAINY DAY DIVERSIONS."

"Rainy Day Diversions," by Carolyn Wells. Moffat, Yard & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.00 net.

This fine collection of original games, puzzles and recreations of many kinds for days in the house is destined to a wide circulation and permanent popularity. It has something in it for children of all ages and from seven years up it will prove a universal and permanent family institution. It differs from preceding books of the kind in many ways, notably in the simplicity of the equipment necessary for the enjoyment of the diversions here described, utilizing the material at hand in every home. There are three general divisions:

I.—Uncle Bob's Astonishing Tricks.

II.—Holiday Amusements.

III.—Children's plays.

Uncle Bob is undoubtedly a genuine Fairy Prince of an uncle, and boys and girls find his clever manipulation of dices, dominoes, cards, and coins, his astonishing mind-reading and his parlor magic amazingly interesting; and, the best of it is, the tricks are all so simple they can do them themselves for the mystification and amusement of their playfellows.

II.—Simple home celebrations of New Years day, Washington's birthday, and all the other holidays that children can get up by themselves for the entertainment of family and friends.

III.—Charming plays for the home circle, the children the actors and the scenes simple.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

"English Literature of the Eighteenth Century," by Sir Leslie Stephen. G. P. Putnam's Sons, publishers, New York. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50 net.

Undue depreciation of the eighteenth century is a fad of the literati of the day, and Sir Leslie Stephen's work upon the literature of our Augustan age is in a measure a protest against the illiberal tendency of the hour. Of this the appearance of "English Literature in the Eighteenth Century," the tenth volume of "The Essays of Sir Leslie Stephen," is a reminder. Restraint, measure and balance lucidity, common sense that does not fly but walks with grace and security; a firm hand in dealing with life, as it really is; these are some of the virtues of the writers of the century before last which Mr. Leslie's criticism lifts easily into the sight of all.

"THE ANGEL OF FORGIVENESS."

"The Angel of Forgiveness," by Rosa Nouchette Carey. The J. B. Lippincott Company, publishers, Philadelphia. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.00.

In many chapters the story of Gilda Darnell's life is told, from the eighth year of her age to the eighth year of her married life. Each chapter is introduced by one or more quotations from widely varying sources. Although these are selected with much taste, showing an extended range of reading, this use of quotations often takes something from the zest with which one follows the story. They suggest too much. However, we must put ourselves for the time into the mood of the heroine, who tells her story with many reminiscences of her childhood and girlhood and much detail as to minor matters.

Her home life and the more than ordinarily close relations between herself and her father, who is the only parent she knows until her seventeenth birthday, are set forth with deep affection. At that time she learns that her beloved friend whom, as cousin Yvonne, she has visited each year, is in reality her mother, who became estranged from her father when Gilda was very young, and has lived apart from him, ever holding resentment for the injury she felt he had done her. He, on his part, has always desired reconciliation. After much suffering by all concerned, and illness almost unto death of the daughter, she has the great happiness of reuniting the family. Incidentally, the reader constantly catches glimpses of quiet, uneventful and happy home life in England.

GOOD-SIZED ORE BODY

FIND ON 150-FOOT LEVEL OF GRACE GREENWOOD CLAIM.

[illegible] of Ohio Is Directly Due to Decrease in Treatment and Hauling Charges.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—Hartman & Co., who took a lease a very short time ago on the Grace Greenwood claim on Gold hill, have started to hoist ore. The lessees expect to ship out about two cars of ore before [illegible] claimed that at depth of 150 feet the lessees have a vein body from six to eight feet wide, which has been opened up on the 150-foot level for a distance of 150 feet. The assays indicate that the ore will give returns of from $16 to $20 in gold to the ton.

After a few shipments have been made, and probably by the first of the year, Messrs. Hartman & Co. propose to sink the shaft in order to get under the ore, and also to learn if the shoot continues down for any great depth. If the shoot is found below, sinking will be continued indefinitely.

The resumption of this old mine, which has not been operated for a number of years, is directly due to the decrease in the transportation and treatment charges, which were inaugurated by the United States Refining and Reduction company some six or eight weeks ago. Just as soon as Hartman & Co. get in good running shape they expect to be able to ship from one to two cars of ore a day. A big tonnage is necessary in order to make good money.

REGULAR SHIPMENTS OF ORE

Product of Chief Hawk Claim Runs From $95 to $30 to the Ton—Fair Mined With Considered.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—The Columbia Mining and Development company, which is operating on the Chief of Hawk claim of the Katinka company on Guyot hill, immediately south of the famous Mary McKinney mine, is shipping out ore regularly every week. The grade of the ore runs from $25 to $30 in gold to the ton, and is being mined on the lower levels, where a very fair-sized vein has been uncovered. This company during the past year, has done a large amount of development work in the way of sinking, drifting and crosscutting. The lease is looking very well and the indications are that the tonnage from the property during the coming year will be much heavier than ever before. The lease is under the personal supervision of Charles Walton, who for a number of years was general manager of the Last Dollar property on Bull hill.

AVERAGES $60 TO THE TON

Good Grade of Ore Being Shipped by W. J. Hill, Operating Block of the Pharmacist Property.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—W. J. Hill, who is operating on the north block of the Pharmacist through the Arrowhead shaft of the Burns of the Acacia company, shipped out during the month of November six cars of ore. Some few years were five ounces in gold to the ton. It is stated that the average value of the ore was for less than $60. The ore is being broken down from a three-foot vein, which was encountered in a crosscut opened on the 150-foot level. The ore shows a quantity of sylvanite. Mr. Hill expects shortly to start to drive the Bump creek, and assays taken indicate that some money far be made by working over this waste rock.

The Pharmacist Leasing company, which has been filling an unknown amount of dead work on the south end of this property, will keep extensive work. This company during the shaft to a depth of [illegible] has run crosscuts in several directions, and while encountering several veins, no values of any moment have so far been found.

ORE EXPECTED TO RUN $30.

Two Cars Shipped Out From Anchoria-Leland Property.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—Messrs. Whipp Brothers and Bowen, who took a lease on the Anchoria Leland property on the northwest slope of Gold hill a couple of weeks ago, shipped out two cars of ore yesterday which will probably give returns of about $30 to the ton. The ore being filled west of the shaft at a depth of 100 feet, on what is known as the Iron vein, and which was opened up by Messrs. Carey and Brown years ago. Driver and Carey are reported to have made [illegible] and $15,000 each out of this lease.

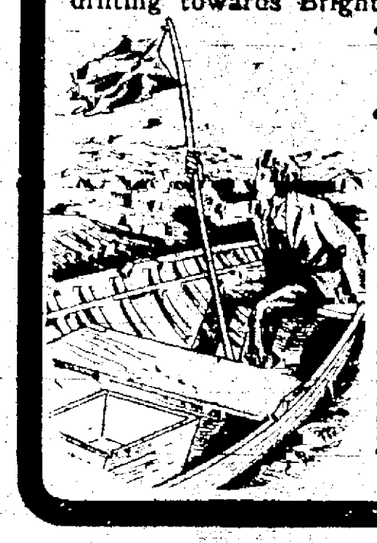
DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.



FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes:

"About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It promptly stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."

Two Sizes, 50 Cents and $1.00.

Do You Want a Nurse?

If you want a nurse for your children you want a good one. The foundation of your children's character is not a little influenced by the character of the nurse whom you employ.

Don't get an adventuress of a product from the slums to take care of your children. Go rather among the people who have a purpose in life, who are refined and genteel.

You can secure this class of a nurse through The Gazette. Read the classified columns every day and Sunday, under the heading "Situations Wanted," or advertise under heading "Help Wanted." You will find the kind of a nurse girl you want.

The Gazette is the Colorado Springs newspaper which prints the "Want Advertisements."

GRAND-$17-TO ORE ROLLY

MINE ON 150-FOOT LEVEL OF GRACE GREENWOOD CLAIM.

Resumption of This Old Mine Is Directly Due to Decrease in Treatment and Hauling Charges.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—Hartman & Co., who took a lease a very short time ago on the Grace Greenwood claim on Gold Hill, have started to hoist ore. The lessees expect to ship out about two cars of ore before [illegible] claimed that at depths of 150 feet the lessees have an ore body from six to eight feet wide, which has been opened up on the 150-foot level for a distance of 150 feet. The assays indicate that the ore will give returns of from $15 to $20 in gold to the ton.

After a few shipments have been made, and probably by the first of the year, Messrs. Hartman & Co. propose to sink the shaft in order to get under the ore, and also to learn if the shoot continues down for any great depth. If the shoot is found below, sinking will be continued indefinitely.

The resumption of this old mine, which has not been operated for a number of years, is directly due to the decrease in the transportation and treatment charges, which were inaugurated by the United States Refining and Reduction company some six or eight weeks ago. Just as soon as Hartman & Co. get in good running shape they expect to be able to ship from one to two cars of ore a day.

A big tonnage is necessary in order to make good money.

REGULAR SHIPMENTS OF ORE

Product of Chicken Hawk Claim Runs From $5 to $30 to the Ton—Fair Sized Vein Uncovered

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—The Columbia Mining and Development company, which is operating on the Chicken Hawk claim of the Kittikin company on Guyot hill, immediately south of the famous Mary McKinney mine, is shipping out ore regularly every week. The grade of the ore runs from $25 to $30 in gold to the ton and is being mined on the lower levels, where a very fair-sized vein has been uncovered. This company during the past year has done a large amount of development work in the way of sinking, drifting and crosscutting. The lease is looking very well and the indications are that the tonnage from the property during the coming year will be much heavier than ever before. The lease is under the personal supervision of Charles Waldron, who for a number of years was general manager of the Last Dollar property on Bull hill.

AVERAGES $60 TO THE TON

Good Grade of Ore Being Shipped by W. J. Hill, Operating Block of the Pharmacist Property.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—W. J. Hill, who is operating on the north block of the Pharmacist through the Wyckoff shaft of the Burns of the Acacia company, shipped out during the month of November six cars of ore. Some few carp went five ounces in gold to the ton. It is stated that the average value of the ore has not less than $60. The ore is being broken down from a three-foot vein which was encountered in a crosscut extended on the 180-foot level. There is also a quantity of sylvanite. Mr. Hill expects shortly to start to handle the dump rock, and assays taken indicate that some money can be made by working over this waste rock.

The Pharmacist Leasing company, which has been doing an immense amount of dead work in the development of this property, will likely start up again soon. This company sank the shaft to a depth of 300 feet and has run crosscuts in several directions and while encountering several veins, no values of any moment have so far been found.

ORE EXPECTED TO RUN $30.

Two Cars Shipped Out From Anchoria-Leland Property.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Dec. 5.—Messrs. Whipp Brothers and Benton, who took a lease on the Anchoria-Leland property on the northwest slope of Gold hill a couple of weeks ago, shipped out two cars of ore yesterday which will probably give returns of about $30 in gold to the ton. The ore is being mined west of the shaft at a depth of 100 feet, on what is known as the Iron vein, and which was opened up by Messrs. Burns and Brown over a year ago. Brown and Clapp are reported to have made between $10,000 and $15,000 each on this lease.

DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes:

"About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."

Two Sizes, 50 Cents and $1.00.

Light Effect of Bank Failure at Kansas City Evidence of Returning Confidence.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Transactions opened week at the stock Exchange today in the face of the [illegible] failure of one of the clearing of the banking [illegible] of stocks did not much outlast the first hour's dealings. The manner in which the market accepted the situation showed improvement. The best tone of the prevailing power and of the [illegible] of confidence in the ability of the financial institutions of the country to withstand the strain of speculation.

The effect of the bond market, the week just ended, gave clear warning of the change in the investment situation. Mortgage securities have been freely purchased for which differing accounts, including an important and substantial portion of the demand. It is to this fundamental change that financial opinion has agreed to look for the first reliable index of the return to the situation for the better. While the news of the suspension of credits, resulting from the mending of the banking situation, speculative party has found means to take advantage of the improving conditions by large operations in the market. The effective support received by the [illegible] in the face of the bank [illegible] City news, drew a large element of the short interest to cover and aided materially [illegible] level of prices. The market continued to give every evidence of the large professional share in the operations and of its manipulative tactics [illegible] in the leadership.

The impression was spread in the [illegible] of the stock exchange that the leadership was concerned with the extent to which the direct [illegible] of some of the most influential banking and financial institutions in New York, in the work of the manipulation of the market. The presence from various important banking centers in the country to the Association House and among a strong section of the banks in [illegible] to be responsible was a factor in the growing [illegible] of confidence in the day's movements. The responsibilities of the market were indicated by the impatience in realizing profits on the day's advance, which caused the retrogressive movement of the day's gains in the course of the last hours of trading.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales par value, $3,000,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT MARKET STRONG

ACTIVE DEMAND FROM SHORTS PUTS PRICES UP.

Rally in Stocks Has Influence on Grain Market. Corn and Oats Close Strong.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—The wheat market opened weak on general selling by pit traders who were largely influenced by a decline of more than 1d at Liverpool and by the bank situation at Kansas City. For the first hour the market received little support but toward the middle of the session as a result of demand developed especially from shorts, which resulted in an advance of 1¼c to 2¼c from the low point [illegible]. The sharp rally in stocks, a fair local export demand and a decided increase in Dominion and Argentine shipments helped the amount of wheat in sight, [illegible] the work, were the principal factors that [illegible] the demand. The markets closed strong at [illegible] the highest point. May opened [illegible] to [illegible] lower at $1.04@$1.04¼, sold up to [illegible] and closed at $1.06¾. The close was at [illegible].

Corn was weak early owing to the [illegible] in wheat, but [illegible] a strong tone developed [illegible] of the early loss was recovered. The advance in wheat and a lively demand for the cash grain were the chief strengthening influences. The close was firm [illegible] May opened [illegible] to [illegible] lower at 52½@52¾c, advanced to 53c and then [illegible] the close was at [illegible].

Oats displayed moderate weakness at the start in sympathy with wheat and corn, but afterwards were fairly strong. The market closed strong. May opened [illegible] to [illegible] lower at 32½@32¾c, advanced to 33c and closed at 33¼@33½c.

Provisions were firm and due to some moderate demand from shorts. At the close, May pork showed a net gain of 7½c at $18.35. Lard was 7½c higher at $9.90, the ribs 10@12½c higher at $9.37½@$9.75.

visiting customers not to throw away the tinfoil in which the chocolate is enveloped, but to keep it until called for by an agent, who will gladly pay the market price for it. The present high price for tin is due to the action of English and Dutch speculators, who have boosted it far beyond its actual value. The chocolate industry in Europe alone takes nearly $4,000,000 annually for its foil, which is usually thrown in the wash.

Do You Want a Nurse?

If you want a nurse for your children—you want a good one. The foundation of your children's character is not a little influenced by the character of the nurse whom you employ.

Don't get an adventuress of a product from the slums to take care of your children. Go rather among the people who have a purpose in life, who are refined and genteel.

You can secure this class of a nurse through The Gazette. Read the classified columns every day and Sunday, under the heading "Situations Wanted," or advertise under heading "Help Wanted." You will find the kind of a nurse girl you want.

The Gazette is the Colorado Springs newspaper which prints the "Want Advertisements."

For Men

Our south window contains some gift suggestions for men. We have attempted to choose only such things as would appeal strongly to men's tastes. Two qualities men usually desire, practicability and simplicity are embodied in most of our selections. The goodness is unquestioned. If you are seeking a gift for a "difficult" man, let us help you out. If it's worth while it's on our stock. The same cordial welcome is extended whether you buy or not.

THE ASHBY JEWELRY COMPANY.

On Buying Furniture for Gifts

Our wants such furniture as will speak well for the giver during all the years it will be used. Now with this in mind, where will you buy? We solicit your patronage only after your inspection has proven the superiority of Fairley home furnishings over others at equal prices. Think this over and buy your home gifts wherever your good judgment prompts.

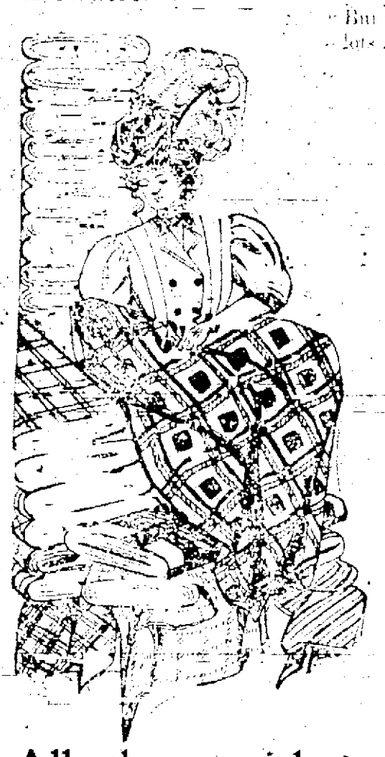
But—for practical shopping days from now till Christmas. Shop early.

Two days of unprecedented selling

As the close of the December dress goods sale approaches price reductions become more important

With a strong determination that this December offer shall surpass the sale of a year ago, we have renewed our efforts and have made extra preparations for two days' selling that should boost this campaign beyond comparison. To successfully conduct this sale that it may make history, it is imperative that we have your support. In return you've a right to expect bargains not to be found elsewhere.



But we're going ourselves one better, in offering to you for today and Saturday, several selected lots at prices that have not been made by us or any other concern in the city.

In novelty suitings

Fine new novelties in dark, rich color combinations, in the fashionable checks and stripes that will make up beautifully. Regular price $1.25 to $1.50; December sale today and Saturday, only, yard 75c
